What's the Telephone Strike All About?

The unions representing telephone employees have made a number of demands on Michigan Bell and are on strike to enforce their demands.

The key issue is wages.

The unions' demands on wages and other matters would cost Michigan Bell an additional $26,000,000 a year. That's equivalent to an average of $25.93 more a week for each of our employees. It's equivalent to adding more than $1.50 a month per telephone to Michigan Bell's cost of serving the 1,406,000 telephones in its territory. In the long run, of course, telephone users pay in rates for service what the company has to pay out in wages.

TELEPHONE WAGES ARE GOOD

Starting wages for operators without previous experience now range from $25 in the smallest towns all the way up to $31 in Detroit; and the corresponding top rates are from $39 to $45.

The men who install and repair telephones in these same communities start in right out of school, with no previous experience, at $26 to $31. Regular raises bring those wages to tops of $55 to $72.

These basic rates for a five-day 40-hour week are increased by extra payments for overtime, Sunday, holiday, evening and night duty.

It is to the advantage of everyone, including telephone subscribers, to pay good wages to telephone employees. But Michigan Bell's wages already compare favorably with others in the community for work requiring similar skill. That's the way telephone wages should be — because that's the fair thing for both customers and employees.

OTHER ADVANTAGES

In addition to good wages, telephone employees have good working conditions . . . holidays with pay . . . vacations with pay of one, two or three weeks, depending on length of service. And they have sickness and death benefits and pensions, all paid in full by the company.

WE REGRET THIS STRIKE

We tried to avoid the strike by offering to extend or renew present labor contracts. The unions did not accept. Instead, they insisted on substantial wage increases.

Under the circumstances, the company has said, therefore, "Let's decide the wage dispute by putting it before an impartial panel of representative Michigan citizens for arbitration, and have both sides abide by their decision."

Certainly, those Michigan citizens would be in a position to determine whether Michigan Bell's wages are fair to employees and fair to the public — and to what extent recent wage settlements in other industries have a bearing, if any, on telephone wages in Michigan communities.

WHY HAVEN'T THE UNIONS ACCEPTED OUR ARBITRATION OFFER?

Apparently a big reason is that the unions representing Michigan Bell employees cannot move without the approval of the National Federation of Telephone Workers with which they are affiliated.

It looks as if the N.F.T.W. wants nation-wide power for itself through nation-wide bargaining. This would mean nation-wide power over an essential public service — and without regulation in Michigan.

Settling Michigan wage matters in Michigan is the fair way to handle the wage question. After all, 99 per cent of all our telephone calls are local or within the state of Michigan. And the rates for all of this service are regulated right here in Michigan by the Michigan Public Service Commission.

ARBITRATION COULD END STRIKE

Agreement on our wage arbitration offer could be the means of ending the telephone strike right now.

Telephone employees could get back to work and the public could get normal telephone service again. Michigan Bell is still hopeful a speedy solution can be worked out.
