FRESHMAN SENATORS
ARE MAJOR FORCE

We were stitting in the radio gallery of the United States senate. Below us, six or seven sesators were on their feet, fidgetting to be heard.

"I'ves never seen anything like it," my friend was muttering, "never in my 12 years on Capitol Hill." "This touching concern for the housewives?" I asked.

"No," my friend explained, "I mean the treshman senators in this 'class." The Class of '47. I'ves never seen such activity among any group of baby senators before—the way these hosys have pitched in to build major legistation; the way they handle themselves on the floor, presenting their points so effectively, and so on—" $15,994.86 on-"

I pointed out that we had watched ferment among brandsew lawmakers before. When Arthur Vandesberg came to the senate in 1225, for example, he was the sparkplug of a group of newtomers who called themselres "The Young Turks." And when the resent Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach was in the senate, he and a group of other new senators teamed up to break Huey Long's fillbuster.

True, my friend admitted, there's always a certain amount of "revote". But, never before have there been so many articulate young legislators in one class, and never have they made themselves so thoroughly fett, in such a short time.
