The Sunshine Sisters held their usual meeting in the Neighborhood Church Wednesday afternoon of last week. In keeping with the season, "Mothering" was the topic and a number of appropriate readings on the subject were given. A friendly social hour, during which a special Mother's Day cake, contributed by Mrs. Sidelink, was served with tea, climaxed the happy little affair.

The Sunshine Sisters will meet again on Wednesday afternoon, May 21.

With the arrival of mild weather, dozens of school boys are hiking off week ends to the golf courses where many of them are able to earn substantial sums for candy.

Church leaders and Bible School teachers regret the situation which creates such a drop in Sunday attendance records at this time of year, but it seems "just one of those things". A ruling prohibiting employment of boys under fourteen is said to have been made, but up-to-date does not seem effective.

Potted plants made the Neighborhood Church beautiful for the regular services Sunday. A program, honoring mothers, was given at the Bible School session. A fine attendance, including a number of mothers, was on hand for the occasion. A feature delighting the children was the appearance of Grandma Martin and Grandma Ault, the two oldest great-grandmothers of the community and who are seldom able to attend public affairs.

The new community Methodist Church hopes to have a church building ready for occupancy on a lot already purchased some time in July. It will be located on Seven Mile Road, near Pierson School. Provisions are being made for installing a kitchen and having facilities for holding suppers, supervised dances and other forms of wholesome recreation.
