Can you name the principal materials they're made of?

ANSWER: (1) rubber, (2) lead, (3) copper, (4) steel, (5) cotton yarn, (6) lumber. These critical materials needed to expand the telephone system are still on the "scarce" list. That's one of the reasons why many folks are still waiting for telephones.

Despite material shortages, we're getting quite a bit of new equipment — wire, cable, central office apparatus and switchboards. And as fast as we can install it, we're able to connect more telephones. But new orders for telephone service keep coming in almost as fast as we can fill the ones we already have on our books.

So there's a lot of work ahead. More buildings to erect. More wire, cable and central office equipment to manufacture and install.

Now that the telephone strike is over, we're moving along with the job. Our aim is plenty of telephone service for everybody ... when and where they want it.
