YOUNG PEOPLE ATTEND CAMP THIS WEEK

Twenty-seven young people of Farmington's First Baptist Church are attending Christian Life Camp from Monday, August 25 through Sunday, August 30, at SLEEPER STATE Park in the "Thumb" area near Cassville. The camp is sponsored by the local church in cooperation with four Baptist Churches of the Detroit area. A total of 115 campers and 30 staff members make up the camp personnel.

The daily program consists of classes in the forenoon and directed recreation in the afternoon, with campfire sessions at night. Special guests for the week are a staff speaker and leader from the Michigan Conservation Department related to parks, and a returned missionary from Burma.

Staff members attending from the local church include Mrs. Irene Coiter, Mrs. Effie Seger, Dietrich McFarland and Rev. and Mrs. Fred B. Fisher. The group will conduct the regular evening service at the First Baptist Church, August 31.

TERRACING YOUNG ORCHARDS VITAL IN EROSION CONTROL

Young orchards must be protected from erosion if their years of productivity are to be maintained. Michigan horticulture specialists at Michigan State College. Loss of top soil by erosion is one of the serious problems in orcharding in Michigan.

Terrell says the most effective method for erosion control in orchards. But skill and experience are required in laying out an adequate system. Expert help can be secured from the local soil conservation district.

Terrace systems should be laid out before the new orchard is planted. The specialists advise. If it should be necessary to plant trees before the terraces are built, ample space should be left between tree rows for the terrace construction, and provisions made for roads.

Orchard terraces are essentially the same as those for field crops, explain the MSC horticulturists. Horizontal spacing, however, is adjusted to conform as nearly as possible to the recommended spacing of tree rows for the kind of fruit to be planted. Where this terrace spacing is closer than would be used in field terrace, the size of the terrace can be reduced proportionately.

Grassed outlets for the terraces should be constructed and seeded at least a year before the terraces are built and before they are to carry any water. The outlet is important because of the cost of construction, efficiency of operation, and convenience of orchard management. Usually it is cheapest to use a natural drainage way that is graded to sufficient capacity, fertilized and seeded. And the terrace outlet should never be used as a road for hauling fruit or for spray equipment, the specialists warn. Other methods of preventing erosion include mulching and soil covers, both of which have great use and which are discussed in Circular Bulletin 199 from Michigan State College.

CLAIRE YUHASZ MARRIED AUGUST 23

Claire Marie Yuhasz, daughter of Mrs. Robert Richardson of Orchard Road, Detroit, and the late John Yuhasz, became the bride of Francis O. Ratigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Ratigan of Indian Avenue, Detroit, at a double ring ceremony Saturday morning, August 23, at St. Marys of Redford Church.

For her wedding, Claire wore a beautiful white slipper satin gown fashioned with a high neckline, fitted bodice and full skirt sweeping in a long train. Her three-tiered veil of illusion fell from a halo of identical satin. She carried a lovely bouquet of white orchids with baby orchids tied in the streamers.

The bride's sister, Margaret Yuhasz, was her maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Susan Ratigan, Joan Richardson, Marilyn "Purson" and Justine Nichols. The girls were all gowned in dresses of coral chiffon. Nieces of the bridegroom, Patricia and Ann Ratigan, were the little flower girls. Bernard J. Ratigan, Jr., acted as his brother's best man. CHAPTER 230 - FUEL OIL
(Approved Apr. 13, 1925. Effective May 14, 1925. Ord. 183-B)

SEC. 11, PAR 2:-
EXTINGUISHER SHALL BE PROVIDED
Near the entrance to the furnace room and so located as to be convenient for use in emergency, there shall be provided a suitable hand extinguisher of approved type.

COAL is the SAFE fuel

Detroit home-owners who burn coal to heat their homes can ignore the city ordinance above. A fire-extinguisher may be a handy and foresighted thing to have about the house... but there's no law that says you must keep one near your furnace when you burn coal. Because COAL is the SAFE fuel... it ignites only when you want it to; it cannot leak, seep or spill, needs no pipes or storage tanks that may become defective. Fires caused by home-heating fuels may be few... but when you burn COAL, you reduce your personal odds to the absolute minimum.

Your Local Coal Merchant will help you get the Best out of Coal

Its safety is only one of the valuable, often unique qualities of Coal as a fuel. Your local retail coal merchant would like to point out the others to you... and how to keep your furnace or stoker operating at top efficiency and economy. His counsel is free.
