MSC SPEAKERS AVAILABLE FOR LOCAL MEETINGS

Would your club, or school assembly or church group like to hear a native of Egypt or any of 35 other foreign countries tell about his homeland?

The Student Speakers' Bureau at Michigan State college can fix you up at no cost other than transportation and meals for the speaker.

This is typical of the service rendered by the bureau, a ten-year-old organization which so far has presented 2,000 programs before nearly 250,000 people.

On the speakers' roster this year are approximately 85 people, both graduate and undergraduate students, prepared to speak on subjects ranging from aforementioned foreign countries to Art in Every-day Life, Labor Unions, Hints on Household Buying, The Modern Instructor and Tomorrow's World of Electricity. Many of the lectures are illustrated. All have been approved by the departments of study in which students specialize.

In addition to the group of speakers, there are nine persons who give interpretive readings of a wide variety of material suitable for many groups, ages and occasions. Included are poetry, plays, essays, short stories and book condensations.

The bureau also supplies programs in the form of discussions and demonstrations in such fields as dramatics, interpretation, speech correction, radio, debate, discussion and parliamentary procedure.

Director of the bureau, which is sponsored by the department of speech, dramatics and radio education, is Gordon L. Thomas, instructor in speech at the college. Arrangements for programs are made through him.

Participating students get neither financial remuneration nor class credits for their work.

In the case of foreign students, the major compensations are the opportunities for practice in handling English, for learning more about America through broader experiences in it and for telling people about their own countries.

The big compensation for speakers on special interest subjects in the sciences and arts are increased knowledge of their subject matter through intimate handling of it, and also practice in self-expression.

P.T.A. Program

Douglas, who has traveled extensively in Europe. She spoke of the tragic conditions and how great is their immediate need.

Mrs. Trouteaud held an open discussion on Russia. Questions were asked from the floor, and Mrs. Trouteaud answered them from the knowledge she had gained from the speakers she had heard at the convention.

Those who attended felt that they had gained a great deal of knowledge from the meeting, and it was one of the most interesting yet held.

Musical selections on the accordion, saxophone and clarinet were played by Mike Sinacola and Mickey Kane of the Clarenceville High School, and were greatly enjoyed.

Tickets are now ready for the feather party to be held on Friday, December 15. This is one of the big projects of the year, so come out and bring your friends. Help to make it a success.

There will be another vote on the High School Addition on December 6. If you are not registered, please do so this week. Registration closes this Saturday.

The next P.T.A. meeting will be a Christmas party on Monday, December 15. All parents and friends are invited. Everyone is extended a most cordial invitation to attend.
