1947 Community Book Week Project To Aid Children In U. S. And Overseas

BOOKS FOR THE WORLD OF TOMORROW

The 25th National Observance of Children's Book Week is being celebrated this week, November 16-22. The slogan around which libraries, schools and civic organizations are planning their annual program is "Books for the World of Tomorrow".

The poster, shown above, has been designed by the noted illustrators of children's books, Ingri and Edgar Wadé. It depicts the children of the world, from the Arctic to the tropics, gathered around a table, looking at books. The poster is a call to action for the community to support the book week project.

To activate this slogan, the Children's Book Council, 62 West 45th Street, New York City, which is the national headquarters for Book Week information and aids, has initiated a special Book Week project for 1947. The Council tells us that at least eleven million American boys and girls are without access to library service or reading of any kind other than text books. This is a shocking fact, coupled with the knowledge that the United States is also the home of the greatest children's book industry in the world. The Council has therefore enlisted the help of

Credit Bureau Formed For Farmington Area

Mr. George V. Spencer, formerly with the Treasury Division of Chrysler Corporation, is organizing a credit bureau to serve the merchants of Farmington, Southfield, Redford and Livonia Townships. Service Bureau, and a collection department will be a feature of the new bureau.

Mr. Miller of the Pontiac Credit Bureau is cooperating with Mr. Spencer in organizing the temporary offices are located at 31875 Hill Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kane and Mrs. Myrtle Carrier on Eight Mile Road were dinner and theater guests in Detroit on Sunday.

The Henry Robertsons had relatives from Vassar at their guests over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Davis and son Paul are spending Thanksgiving in Iowa with Mr. Davis' parents.

Travel in Circles
Electrons are one of the three kinds of atomic particles that travel in orbits around the nucleus like planets. Having a negative charge, they are very light, just 1/1836th of that of the lightest atom, hydrogen.

Women and Their Washers
During this postwar period more women than ever are insisting on a washer with a pump. The pump is built-in, operates automatically and saves lifting and exertion as well as time.
