WILL THERE REALLY BE A COAL SHORTAGE THIS WINTER?

Why not ask your Coal Merchant?

THERE HAVE BEEN A LOT OF GLOOMY FORECASTS RECENTLY regarding a grave shortage of fuels for home heating this coming winter . . . Detroiters, it has been promised, will shiver for lack of oil, gas and coal to burn in their heating plants.

Before you get too panicky about the situation, do this: Call your own local coal merchant and ask him about it. The best authority on your coal supply is your coal supplier; others (including many "experts" who are not connected with the Coal Industry) are prone to look at a big, hazy picture that conveys only a generalized view.

Of course, your coal man cannot speak with authority on the fuel oil or gas situation; but he can and will tell you the truth about coal. One of the things he will tell you is not to be guided by the size of supplies in his yard. Lake shipments have always had priority at this time of the year; when the navigation season is over the normal shipments direct to Detroit for home heating use will, as usual, take place. So the fact that your retailer's yards may be low now does not mean it will not be amply full by the time you are ready to light your first fire.

Your coal retailer will also remind you of this: Unlike other fuels, there is still three thousand years' supply of coal in the ground. You may not be able to get the exact type or quality of coal you prefer on your first delivery, but barring conditions beyond his control, your coal merchant will be able to keep your home warm, as he has always done during both World Wars, without coupon rationing. You can cooperate with your coal retailer by accepting delivery of the type and size of coal he has available now.

But don't take our word for it. Don't take anybody's word for it . . . except your local coal merchant's. Like your family doctor, his principal concern is your well-being. Before you come to any hasty decision—call him up and ask him: "Will I have coal this winter?"
