Christmas Mail

down addressees who have moved since you made out your Christmas card list last year. These clerks also try to figure out whether you mean "Elm Street" when you addressed a card to a non-existent number on "Oak Avenue," and they are experts at deciphering obscured or almost-illegible handwriting. "Only cards that are sent first-class may be sealed," the postmaster said. "You are permitted to sign your name on a card sent third-class, but if you decide to write a few cheery lines to an old friend or tuck in a little social note, be sure to put a 3-cent stamp on the envelope."
Every year some cards also are returned to senders because the stamps fell off en route, he reported. "Don't just give stamps a lick and a pat," he requested. "Affix them firmly."

The Postmaster asked that all Christmas cards and packages for out-of-state delivery be in the mails by December 10, and that local cards be mailed by December 15.
