OUR INVITATION
I love to come to this still place,
Where deeper peace is always found.
To kneel as though on holy ground,
And feel my Master face to face
I do not know how I could live
If there were not this refuge sweet.
Where I could linger at His feet
And He to me sweet healing give.

WELCOME

MID-WINTER DREAM

Washington Digest

Contest Between Taft, Dewey Decisive In Republican Race

By SAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator

As this is written, the crystal ball gazers say that the 57-year-old, mustachioed governor of the Empire State is going to be the next President of the United States. Some people will question this, and there, six or more months from now even my private crystal gazers may revise their predictions.

But the Dewey following is confident, even in the face of the latest Roper poll, which shows that Harold Stassen is the only Republican (more than Eisenhower) who could win four out of the six major geographical regions of the country from Mr. Truman! The poll says Stassen leads everywhere but in the solid South.

Suppose the solid South should split from the Democratic party, as they indicated they might in order to rebuke the President for his so-called "anti-southern" civil rights message which recommended anti-lynch, anti-poll-tax, fair practices legislation, which is labeled "pro-Negro" by many southern critics? Well, suppose that, and as of the date of this poll (February 5), Stassen has it.

Still the old-timers stick to their prediction of Dewey, which they make with tears in their eyes. Instead of smoke from the smoke-filled room where decisions are supposed to be made.

I wish that you people could have attended that over-crowded luncheon at the National Press club when Gen. Dwight Eisenhower spoke and introduced his successor, Gen. Omar Bradley, as chief of staff.

It was a good talk, and you probably read the report of it. You also probably have read the report of the question and answer period which General Eisenhower permitted, and which was one of the best news conferences — that's what it turned out to be — that I ever have attended. Members who couldn't get in were standing up, cooking ears, 12 to 15 deep outside the entrance to the dining room.

Naturally some questions dealt with the Eisenhower withdrawal statement issued late in January. The night after the Eisenhower withdrawal, which most Republicans and Democrats considered official, I happened to be with two die-hard, right-wing Republicans, who wouldn't even admit they were as happy as they were. They kept saying, "Why couldn't he have said that much earlier if he meant it, and anyhow he has left a loophole so he can run, if not now, in 1952."

I couldn't see that. I knew a lot of Republicans thought Eisenhower's letter was an absolutely honest statement, dictated by the reasoning of an honest man, untrained in politics. It is true, but speaking from his heart.

There isn't space to repeat Eisenhower's long statement in which he said, among other things: "I am not available for and could not accept nomination for high political office. . . . My decision is definite and positive."

"The necessary and wise subordination of the military to civil power will be kept sustained. . . . when lifelong professional soldiers . . . abstain from seeking high political office."

I would regard it as unalloyed tragedy for our country if ever should come the day when military commanders might be selected with an eye to their future potentialities in the political field."

General Sherman said: "I will not run if nominated and will not serve if elected."

But what motivated Sherman and Eisenhower?

The sincere belief expressed in Eisenhower's statement that a man of purely military training wasn't equipped for the job? (That statement, as you know, was thrown back at Eisenhower as a sideswipe at Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who has emphatically NOT said that he didn't choose to run.)

I have spoken of the Eisenhower family at some length before in this column. I do not claim to be more than an acquaintance. But, as I said, when General Eisenhower's

Mid-winter memories of Michigan travel: . . .

How Col. Karl Detzer, roving editor of the Readers' Digest and now publisher of two Michigan weekly newspapers, made a vigorous plea to Michigan newspaper editors for support of Secretary of State George C. Marshall and Senator Arthur Vandenberg. Detzer spoke at Traverse City. "Joe Stalin is scared of Marshall," said Detzer.

The week end at Traverse City (June 21-22, 1947) was delightful. A perfect setting for an afternoon drive, and take a dunking in the Ausable river, north of Lucerne. The misadventure, without saying a word, brings me a bathing suit.

How I tip over my canoe, trying to carry an outboard motor and to balance myself, both at the same time, and take a dunking in the Ausable river, north of Lucerne. The misadventure, without saying a word, brings me a bathing suit.

How we travel a winding road, trail, a mile and three-quarters, to the river cabin of Schuyler L. Marshall, member of the state public service commission and former publisher at St. Johns. No traffic noise here. Cabin has left for bunks; huge stone fireplace and glass-enclosed porch overlooking the main stream of the Ausable, near Grayling.

How it costs $1.25 for our automobile and $1.50 for our trailer coach, plus 25 cents each for two passengers, to cross the Straits of Mackinac on one of Charles Fiegler's ferry boats. Total: $3.25.

How James Darcy, a former lumbercamp chef, prepared trout at his restaurant and overnight cabins at Silver City near Ontonagon. Darcy began cooking at the age of 14; when he was 20 he was in complete charge of meals at a bustling lumber camp. "I always taste everything before I serve it," he said. Why is it that good food is so hard to get?

How 1948 reservations for the Pictured Rocks National Monument can be reserved in advance by writing to Knox Harrison, park superintendent, Ontonagon. Three of these cabins are at Mirror Lake, accessible by foot trail.

How surprised we were to learn that Lake of the Clouds is only 15 feet deep, just a wide spot in the Cary River. . . . How cold the night air was at Mirror Lake, whose elevation is higher than the highest point of the Lake of the Clouds Escarpment.

How we continue to be thrilled at the discovery of lakes in nearly every section of Michigan. Truly Michigan is the "lake state".

Looking Back Through The Enterprise Files

TWENTY FIVE YEARS AGO (February 23, 1923)

New Peoples State Bank Building Marks Five Years of Progress
The opening celebration of The Peoples State Bank of Farmington on Friday and Saturday of last week marked the fifth anniversary of this institution, which has shown a remarkable growth in a short time. From a modest beginning in a small brick building erected five years ago for the purpose, on the site of the present handsome and modern building, the business has grown to one of importance in this locality.

Getting Too Risky
The icy condition of the highways is proving a little too risky for many of the most venturesome motorists and one by one the cars are being housed for the balance of the winter. Every day sees one or two of the big highway cars hauled into garages for repairs.

TEN YEARS AGO (February 24, 1933)

Mail Route Revision
Beginning March 1, one of the longest mail routes in the State will be cut in half. The rural route of Mrs. Ethel Middlewood will be cut from more than 1100 boxes to about 450 under the new division of the rural routes. The revision is possible because of the addition of a third route. The new schedule sends the carriers from the postoffice at 9:30 in the morning and brings them in at 2:30 in the afternoon. Mrs. Middlewood, on her old route, returns about 6 o'clock.

Township Buys New Fire Truck
Farmington Township soon will have a new fire truck. The Board voted to replace the old truck at a special meeting Wednesday night at the home of Harry N. McCracken, clerk, on 12 Mile Road. The truck the Board voted to buy is a Ford equipped with auxiliary springs and other essential accessories and 32x6 Sply tires. The total cost amounts to about $740.

FIVE YEARS AGO (February 25, 1943)

Church Speaker Predicts End of War
A most interesting and informative talk was given at the Farmington Methodist Church Sunday evening when Professor Howard McCleusky of the University of Michigan and Washington, D. C., predicted the end of the war with Germany in 1944 and with Japan in 1945. Professor McCleusky stated that Germany is training 100,000 picked youth to be a seed bed for another revolution in Europe, in the event that Germany is defeated.

War Fund Drive to Raise $5,243 Starts Here Monday
The War Fund campaign of the American Red Cross begins tonight, Monday, March 1. Though the drive will continue throughout the month, the Board of War Relocation Authority in Farmington, Michigan, and Mrs. Joseph DeVriendt, have expressed their desire to complete the canvass within two weeks.
