Strelt says further that power can be divided into four suits, like a deck of cards, and that these 15 democracies, if they federate, can hold every ace. He lists them: "The Ace of Clubs: Armed power. Not only would their soldiers, if united, number as many as Russia's and be much more mobile and better-equipped, but this union would begin by having the bulk of the world's airpower; 90 per cent of its naval tonnage; advance bases everywhere on earth; 100 per cent atomic power.

"The Ace of Spades: Productive power. Despite the tangle on tariffs and currencies, these democracies outproduce the rest of the world. Think what they could do with a free flow of trade similar to that among our own states!

"The Ace of Diamonds: Raw material power. No need of separate stockpiling of essentials. These nations could produce 50 to 90 per cent of most of the things we need.

The Ace of Hearts: Moral power. This union would unite all lands towards which the rest of humanity has looked for refuge from oppression and leadership toward liberty. Nothing can appeal to men so deeply as can individual freedom—and to back it up with every ace is to add irresistible authority to its appeal."

If that is a very concise and logical statement. Western Europe already is moving toward a union, slowly, out of necessity. Because there is NO OTHER WAY!

The peoples of the world do not want war; the free nations, having achieved freedom, have no cause for war except to defend that freedom. The federation could maintain freedom without war, for no one would dare to challenge it.

CONVENTION COVERAGE TOOK MUCH PLANNING

Convention hall in Philadelphia, as the Republican convention got under way, was no sight for the sore eyes of Harold McGrath and Bob Menough, superintendents respectively of the senate and house radio galleries and Bill Henry, president of the Radio Correspondents association.

Since October, 1947, they've practically been suffling from Washington to Philadelphia to inspect the hall, plan where broadcasts should originate, decide where network and independent radio news broadcasters of varying degrees of importance should be seated, confer with Republican and Democratic politicians, supervise hotel accommodations, and most vital of all, hurt nobody's feelings in the process.

Four hundred and 36 radio newsmen were assigned to cover the Republican convention as compared to the 40 radio men accredited eight years ago and 160 in 1944.

Forty-four organizations in addition to the four major networks originated broadcasts from the convention; 31 of these shows came from the hall itself. Others originated in the 14 other facilities scattered around the building, some on the stage of the hall, some in the basement and so on.

Population Shift

Apart from those entering the armed forces, says a 20th Century Fund report, more than one million of New York's 1940 civilian population migrated to other parts of the country between 1940 and 1943, while California, with about half of New York's population, gained a million.

Highest Temperature

Birds, with a temperature of 104 to 110 degrees, have the highest body temperature of all creatures.

RURAL LEADERSHIP COURSE AT MSC SET FOR JULY 15-16

More than 100 rural pastors, teachers and farm organization leaders will assemble on the Michigan State College campus next week for the second annual Rural Leadership conference.

The special course will be held July 15-16, and is sponsored by the MSC Institute of Short Courses.

The major objectives of the course will be to assist in promoting better service work in the rural community, and to extend the working relationships among the religious, educational, organizational and agency forces serving rural people.

mark of its colorful past at St. James is the Old Mormon Printing House, erected in 1850. There the first daily newspaper north of Grand Rapids was printed on April 1, 1858. The final issue of the "Northern Islander" recorded the story of Strang's assassination.

The Old Mormon Printing House is now marked by a historical plaque sponsored by the Michigan Press Association and the Michigan Historical Commission. The dedication ceremony took place on Sunday, June 27, at the quiet village of St. James.

Frame-constructed walls in live-stock structures can be made sufficiently warm by putting waterproof paper, sheathing and siding on the outside and waterproof paper and sheathing on the inside, report MSC agricultural engineers. Walls can be improved by adding an inch of insulation or by filling the stud space with insulation.
