POTATO GROWERS PLAN AUGUST FIELD DAY AT LAKE CITY

Michigan's potato growers will meet at Lake City on Monday, August 2, for a field day where new developments in potato research will be shown. Growers will also discuss plans for a "real of quality" marketing program to insure consumers of better potatoes.

The event is being jointly sponsored by Michigan State College and the Michigan Potato Development association. In the morning a business meeting of the association will be held at the Lake City State park at 10 a.m. In the afternoon Ashley Derridge, superintendent of the branch of the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station at Lake City will conduct tours of the farm. Michigan State college research and extension specialists will help show promising new potato varieties, irrigation, cultural practices, spraying and dusting and quick grass control demonstrations.

All Michigan potato growers are invited to attend the event.

OF YOUR COAL
NOW!

Your coal merchant wants you to know why an order on the books, to be filled from future instead of present stocks, will not provide you with the protection which you should have—and which he always wants you to have.

He has no wish to be a scare-monger, but he is anxious to insure your comfort and health this winter, as in the past, with economical coal heat. For this reason, he points out that it would be wise and foresighted not merely to place your coal order now, but to permit him to deliver it to your home now.

Several factors, both present and probable, make it urgently advisable for you to get this winter's coal in your bins without delay:

- 1 Your coal merchant's supply, both in quantity and in kind, is ample at present. This may not be true when cold weather arrives, especially as regards choice of type and size.
- 2 Labor stoppages have cut coal production at the mines and it is earnestly hoped there will be no further interruptions of this kind.
- 3 Transportation facilities are more restricted now than for many years; mines served by many railroads, some of which have had no car shipments until now, are losing from 1 to 1½ days' production per week.
- 4 Coal will again be called upon to fill the gaps made by forecast shortages of oil and gas, thus spreading the supply thinner.
- 5 Certain sections of Detroit's present Smoke Abatement Ordinance do not approve the sale of some types of coal which Detroit has used for years and which represents a large portion of our city's coal supply. Your home coal supply may be affected by this; consult your coal retailer, who is cooperating with smoke abatement to the fullest extent, for information as to whether the coal you use is in question.

To help your coal retailer protect you against a possible reduction of your fuel supply resulting from all factors mentioned—call him today and request delivery of the coal you will need this winter.
