Patriotic Highlights by The Old AAA Traveler

Hundreds of thousands of patriotic Americans each year make the pilgrimage to Plymouth, Massachusetts, to stand in reverence above Plymouth Rock, on which the Pilgrims set foot in 1620.

If I were the father of a school-age youngster I would consider it a "must" that the child see at least a few of the country's outstanding patriotic highlights, the patriotic shrines which are polka-dotted over these United States. That because I am convinced seeing those hallowed spots would make a vastly better American out of boy or girl.

Many of those patriotic highlights are hallowed because brave men and women have died on those spots that America might live and prosper. But for the men and women making sacrifices in earlier days there would be no America as we know it today.

I have in mind Plymouth Rock in Massachusetts, where the Pilgrims stepped ashore, or all that remains of ancient Jamestown, where the first permanent white settlement was established. There's nearby Yorktown, where Cornwallis surrendered, and, of course, Gettysburg, where the battle of the Civil War was fought, and the many other spots which have made contributions to the early life of our country.

Travel southward and you have the Plains of Chalmette, just outside New Orleans, where Andrew Jackson and his painfully small army, augmented by Lafayette's, defeated Pakenham and his Britons in the Battle of New Orleans. The rolling hills of Gettysburg, over in Pennsylvania, where the Union might easily have lost to the Confederacy but for the unquenchable courage of the federal fighters.

"Way down in Texas is the little gray Alamo, where 137 Texans died to the last man rather than surrender to Santa Anna, the little gray church over which to this day still ripples the single-starred flag of the Republic of Texas.

The youngsters should see Valley Forge, where Washington and his ragged army spent that terrific winter of 1777-78, the winter during which Washington's men left trails of blood in the snow, blood from their countless feet - yet they carried on!

All over these United States are the things the youngster should see to build stronger and stronger his or her love for America, his or her pride in being an American. There's the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery... the granite shaft in Lake Erie to mark the spot of Peary's great victory... the Bunker Hill and Chancellorsville... Appomattox and the graves of the Matine's dead in Key West... Mount Vernon, where George Washington sleeps, and The Hermitage, out of Nashville, where Andrew Jackson and his beloved Rachel sleep side-by-side... West Point and Annapolis, where our fighting men are trained... Philadelphia, the very birthplace of liberty, and Washington itself, with the White House and the National Capitol, the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument.

Here we've just scratched the surface, but this little screed may give you an idea of just what we're talking about.

Let your child see these precious spots and sow the seeds for that child to be a better American!

MANY CHURCHES REPRESENTED AT CONVENTION HERE

The Farmington Universalist Church were hosts to a very successful State Convention which closed Sunday, October 10. A goodly representation of the Universalist Churches of the State were in attendance. Different programs were presented at the church and very delicious meals were served at the Town Hall by Mrs. Manzel, Mrs. Kahrl and Mrs. Yull.

A Fellowship Luncheon was held at Saturday noon, and the were speakers from the different Universalist Churches. The State Woman's Missionary Group met and elected officers for the coming year. Saturday evening an address was given by Edwin D. Connor from The Church of Our Father in Detroit. His subject was "The Place of the Church in The Community Service". Mr. Connor is executive secretary of the Detroit Housing and Planning Council. An open forum followed his talk.

Sunday morning opened with a religious educational round table. Best achievements of the year were presented by the different churches. This was followed by worship service and communion. The nursing furnished by Evelyn Adams Costello of the Farmington Church.

The Sunday afternoon session was a young people's rally and round table. Summer camp activities and religious education were discussed by Mrs. Moore of Detroit. A violin solo by Janette Blumenthal was beautifully rendered. An address entitled "Why Do We Study The Old Testament?" was given by Mrs. Seeger of Detroit, followed by an open forum.

The Farmington pastor, Rev. Fred D. Adams, was re-elected president of the State Convention for the coming year.

Plans were made at the business sessions for extensive repairs and remodeling of the old church in Farmington, which was dedicated in October of 1896.

FARM BUREAU OFFICERS PLAN YEAR'S PROGRAM

A meeting of the officers of the West Farmington Farm Bureau Discussion Group was held on Tuesday evening, October 5, at the Lyman Bush home, to discuss plans for the year.

The officers decided that, for the benefit of other members of the group, meetings should be held earlier in the evening, with a half hour of recreation and entertainment to begin at 8:00 p.m. The business session to start promptly at 8:30 p.m. With the schedule of meetings taking approximately two hours, it will thus be possible to adjourn at 10:00 p.m. Refreshments and the social hour follow, but those wishing to depart early will be able to get away by 10:30 p.m.

The chairman pointed out that the group is in charge of the vice chairman, and anyone desiring information regarding membership should call Wendell Green.

Attending the officers' meeting was chairman Ray Howard, Vice Chairman Wendell Green, discussion leader Ed Schmidt, recreation leader Howard McCracken and Mrs. Bush, the secretary. Cake and coffee were served by the hostess following the business discussion.

The regular October meeting of the West Farmington Farm Bureau will be held Thursday evening, October 21, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Bush, 2550 Hagerty Highway. The meeting will begin promptly at 8:00 p.m. A guest speaker will be present and the group will discuss proposed Amendments No. 2 and No. 5. This will be a most informative meeting, and it is hoped all members will attend.
