WASHINGTON DIGEST

think the returning congressmen will verify this.
The army and navy don't say so, but it is no pleasure to them to have to take on the burden of a business simply to offer advantages to servicemen and women and their families which make life easier and cheaper. Ask any post exchange officer how much of a headache an inventory is. He would far rather be inspecting foot-lockers or standing reveille.

The biggest gripe the retailers have against the post exchanges and ships' service stores is the fact that such stores don't have to pay (or charge for) excise taxes. In fact the retailers have demanded that the department of justice look into the legality of the situation.
How the department decides has nothing to do with the army and navy, that is it will be a matter for the civilian branch in this respect. If the justice department says it's OK by them, the merchants probably will carry their lament to the congress. Then the congress will make the tax laws and is elected by the people who pay those taxes and also the people whose sons and daughters are in the armed forces, will decide the matter.

And there is also this to be remembered: true, the exchange does make a "profit"—not a figure to them, but a per cent figure which the law demands they must clear over all expenses and turn into welfare funds. Their "mark-ups" are, of course, less than those of the merchant.

The Army Times puts the argument this way:
"Out of these markups, the exchanges run themselves and pay the 6 per cent to welfare. That is the GI buying in an exchange pays enough over costs to return to himself over 70 per cent of the expense of a multitude of off duty activities—music, service club, radio rooms, hobby shops, soldier shows, library service, athletic facilities and equipment, and the like. The theaters ante under 10 per cent of the welfare requirement. The taxpayers put up just about 15 per cent of the vitally necessary welfare and recreation bill."

If the exchanges didn't turn it in that 6 per cent profit, the taxpayer would have to provide the welfare items mentioned above. Or the GI of today would have even less diversion to brighten the barren surroundings of camp or post than did this lonely rookie when he walked into the decidedly limited institution which the regular army post provided where your correspondent began his none-too-brilliant but nevertheless unforgettable army career.

Much of man's cussedness stems from poor food habits which undermine mental poise and sociability, says a paper read at the American Chemical society. Maybe it's time for the bride to take those jokes about her cooking seriously.

A letter to the American Machinist says that when an executive dates an employee he should never discuss it with other employees. Maybe the less discussing she does the better, too.

Intermediate Girl Scouts Enjoy Long Nature Hike

An enjoyable nature hike was taken by the girls of Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 16 on Saturday, November 13.
With cookies tied in bandanna hanging from sticks over their shoulders, they first hiked to the home of Mrs. Blue on Ten Mile Road where they rested after the first half of their trip. They sang songs they had learned as Brownies and Intermediate Scouts, and then again hiked to a nearby woods where they roamed about looking for birds' nests, leaves and moss. Upon returning to Mrs. Blue's home, they looked at horses, partook of more cookies, ice cream and pop. Still with lots of pep, they enjoyed dancing, then sang a good night farewell and started the return trip.

Arrangements for the hike were made by Mrs. Blue. Other adults accompanying the scouts were Mrs. Runyon and Mrs. Spaller.

FARM MACHINERY NEEDS SPECIAL CARE FOR WINTER

The farm automotive equipment should be readied for winter, say agricultural engineers at Michigan State College. An important point to consider, they believe, is anti-freeze to prevent motor freeze-ups.
The cooling system should be carefully inspected before adding anti-freeze. Costly damage can develop from leaks, and under severe conditions an engine block can be ruined, putting the car, tractor or other equipment out of service.

Here are some of the tips passed along for a cooling-system inspection.

1. Inspect radiator — If it is rust-clogged, it should be cleaned and cleaned. A cooling system cleaner is excellent for this purpose.
2. Check for leaks — radiator hose, hose clamps, and pump should be tight. Servicemen will indicate need for any repairs or replacement.
3. Try cylinder bolts — If they need tightening, use a special tension wrench.
4. Check fan, belt, and heater-slipping belts should be adjusted or replaced, if worn. Heater hoses should drain properly and not trap air.
5. Put in anti-freeze — follow manufacturer's directions to protect the motor. A radiator cap should be used to identify the anti-freeze used, give the degree of protection, and warn against accidental draining.

Above everything else... a good car!

Pontiac has one manufacturing principle which takes precedence over all others:
Pontiac must always be a good car!
There is no other motor car quality which people value so much as goodness. That's why Pontiac engineers and production specialists spend so much time and energy and money to insure Pontiac quality. Pontiac cars must last long—and they must last well—and they must function through the years with a minimum of upkeep cost.
Owners have been quick to appreciate this. Some of the testimonials they send to the factory, and to Pontiac dealers, tell of performance feats that seem almost impossible of attainment.
Pontiac has many other outstanding virtues, of course. It is a wonderful performer. It is delightfully comfortable and easy to handle. It is a great beauty, and unusually distinctive in appearance.
But its greatest virtue is goodness. This year, or any year, you just can't beat it for faithful performance.
