Deer Weather Winter Without Yarding

Without larding

Michigan deer, taking the winter's first heavy weather in stride, have yet to yard over much of the deer territory.

District game managers and conservation officers report slow dopth ranging from 0.7 to a Sow flow from 1 to 1.8 feet in the lower pentuals. Animals are yarded only in the deeper snow but of the Lake Superior watershed where depths have reached 2.5 feet. In the lower pentingula deer are not confined to yards except in the deeper snow areas in the vicinity of Gaylord and Traversa City.

Though server weather may be sensed from now on, the yarding season will be jahorer than usual since the winter season is over the half-way mark.
