SURE ENOUGH ...

SURE ENOUGH ... we are among those few people who say they are going to stay home on a holiday, and then actually do. Yep; all day long. To give that day a holiday atmosphere we are our dinner with the mosquitoes and ants out in the yard, but that's as far as we strayed. That Indianapolis feeling got under too many striks — as the police records how. We have no objection to somebody speeding into a tree — but that tree might how as . . . .

gonna nave them. SOMETHING WE HEARD ... arther disputed us, but we got a small kick out of it, too. Seems our public-spirited fire laddles (roundly applauded for their work at the John Bater home last Saturday) innocently sourced somebody's car while rassling with a fire hose. The occupants of the car, not content to let the firemen fight flames, deemed it necessary to get revenge. So off they drove, to return later with a large pail. The contents of ald pail, a considerable quantity of rather damp water, were flung at the firefruck, men and all. Just hope the wrong folks don't have a fire soon. Couldn't blame the firemen if their house burned down.

A REMINDER ...

A REMINDER.... to the folks who drop a letter to us now and then. According to the rules of the game, (specifically stated under the "Shacerely Yours" headline)/we can't accept any letters for publication unless they are signed. This rules out initials, X marks (unless property witnessed) and wax seals. You'll just have to write again, and this lame do alga Your name. However, we're glad to see the letters come in. This public the final analysis, is edited by the readers, and it's hard to tell what hey want if we don't hear from them.

MORE PARKING . . .

MORE PARKING ... space has been brought to Farmington streets by the addition of park-ing area by Orbit industries. A space behind the hardware emportum and the local ball of justice has been cleared to allow Orbit cars to park off the streets. That's just about twenty more parking places on Grand River now. When the utility poles are taken out of the alley out back, and the new parking lot goes into operation, there ought to be places to park right in the heart of the metropolis here.
