PLAN ATLAS OF THE SKY—Dr. Edwin P. Hubble, well-known U. S. astronomer, puts the unique 48-inch Schmidt photographic telescope through its final series of rehearsals at Palomar, Calif., preparatory to a four-year astronomical mapping project. The survey will provide the first definitive photo atlas of the heavens. The Schmidt telescope, which covers a wide area, will operate in conjunction with the famed 200-inch Hale instrument. It would take the 200-inch telescope 5000 years to cover the same ground. Scientists expect to be kept busy for 50 years or more examining the results of the Schmidt survey.

Build Food Storage To Prevent Spoilage

Those canned foods you have wanted so hard to prepare to serve good storage space to prevent spoilage.

Good storage space, according to Olivia C. Meyer, extension home management specialist at Michigan State College, is cool, dry and dark. Insulation and ventilation will keep the storage cool in hot weather and protect against freezing in cold weather.

Ventilation helps to cool the storage and ventilators should be located at the bottom and top of the food storage. Shutters make it possible to open or close the ventilators as needed.

Food storage may be either a cabinet or storage room, depending on the amount and kind of food and the space available. It should be located near the canning center which may be the kitchen or basement. Cabinet type storage is often best suited for the kitchen.

Cabinets with inside depth of 12 inches are best and two rows of jars can be placed on each shelf. A cabinet with an inside depth of six inches will take care of one row of fruit jars.

Storage rooms usually are best for basement use. At least two square feet of floor space should be allowed to provide room for one person to enter and set cans on the shelves or remove them. You can plan the amount of shelf space needed if you will allow one foot of 12-inch shelf space for each five cans of any size. Allow 20 feet of shelf space for 100 cans.

Top shelves should not be more than 72 inches above the floor. If shelves are more than three or four feet long they should be supported at 32-inch intervals. Place canned meats on the lower shelves. Vegetables next, and fruits near the top.

FLORAL PARK NEWS

By MRS. ROBERT KOOP
23212 Floral — Phone 1104-M

Why mothers get gray! On Sunday my son David drank some fuel oil from a neighbor's garage. On Monday he was bitten by a puppy. On Tuesday he drank a bottle of blue ink and spilled some down a brand new playset, etc., etc., etc. While I was tearing my once dark hair, he flushed his brand new sybil trunks down the you-know-a plumber, a doctor, a psychiatrist, or quit feeding him devil's food cake.

The Harley McIntoshes, of 23115 Floral, the Norman Morris, 23145 Floral, and the Robert Ritchies, of 23135 Floral, had a fencing party Saturday afternoon. Since they all live in a row, they cooperated in putting up the back yard fence. After the work was done, they had a pot luck dinner at the Norman Morris home.

Mrs. Joseph Willing, 23261 Floral, returned to her home from the University of Michigan hospital last Thursday with her infant son, Joseph Anthony.

Mr. and Mrs. George Weisbach,

23228 Lilac, entertained Mr. Weisbach's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Weisbach, last week. The elder Weisbachs are from Terra Haute, Indiana.

Mrs. Charles DeMark, 23235 Floral, has returned from a week's stay in Evanston, Illinois, at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard DeMark. While there she attended the races at Arlington Park.

Mr. and Mrs. James Truman attended the wedding of Mrs. Truman's brother, Jack Rice, and Margaret Burger, both of Belding, Michigan, on Saturday. The wedding was held in Ionia, Michigan. Mr. Truman was the best man and Mrs. Truman assisted at the reception held immediately following the ceremony.

George Cook on Power Road remains very ill in St. Joseph Hospital in Pontiac. His son Robert, and wife, from Portland, Michigan, and son, Dale, of Ferndale, with their mother, Mrs. Cook, spent Sunday with their father in the hospital.
