New Business Blossoms In Farmington

Workmen put cement for the foundation of Lili's new infant Wear Store, on Grand River avenue across from the old store. The new building was necessitated by the Christmas stock present. Business has outgrown the old location.

The dirty laundry came out in the open a few weeks ago when the Farmington Automatic Laundry opened. Now Farmington women can cart their clothes to the 15 Hotpoint washers and commercial driers in the laundry and get the washing done in a hurry. Business here has continued to grow since the opening.

Workmen put the finishing touches on the roof of the Green Speedy Auto-Wash, due to be ready for business soon. The building will house a nine-minute auto washing service. It is located on Orchard Lake Road just off Grand River.

Excavation through hard clay for foundation walls is no snap. Don Haviland, owner of the building going up on Grand River at Nine Mile, says the building will house a radio and television sales and service, now located on Nine Mile near the Cut-Off.

Soil Conservation News

By Larry Tripp
Soil Conservation Planner

Farmers interested in improving the productivity of their land and in protecting that productivity for their own profits, will be interested in knowing about their soil conservation plans. The Soil Conservation District acts in the future will be centered where there is enough community or neighborhood interest in soil conservation, so that neighborhood plans can be developed to solve their problems. Experience has shown that those who understand soil conservation district programs are anxious to cooperate with the district. Soil conservation includes all things known which will increase the efficiency and production from farm land, and which at the same time will not harm permanent injury to the fertility of the land. Frank Russell, District Director near Milford, says: "The neighborhood group approach idea is better because in this way soil conserva-

GIVES DIRECTIONS FOR CANNING SWEET CORN

Corn that is at the right stage for eating is best for preserving, according to foods specialists at Michigan State College. Kernels will be fully formed and the milk thin and sweet.

Corn should be of top quality and should be preserved immediately after gathering. It is best to harvest the corn early in the morning. If you plan to freeze it, husk, silk and trim the ears and avoid submerging corn in water as much as possible.

Scald the corn on the cob for 3 to 4 minutes in boiling water. Cool quickly, cut from the cob and pack. If you plan to freeze it on the cob, scald 8 to 10 minutes, depending on the size of the cob. Cool quickly and pack.

If you plan to can the corn cream style, cut the corn from the cob at about the center of the kernel and scrape the cobs. To each quart of corn, add 1 pint of boiling water. Heat to boiling. Pack hot to 1 inch of top of pint glass jars. Add 1/2 teaspoon salt to each jar. Seal jars. Process in pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure for 85 minutes.

If you plan to can the corn as whole-kernel corn, cut it from the cob at about two-thirds the depth of the kernel. To each quart of corn add 1 pint of boiling water. Heat to boiling. Pack corn to 1 inch of top of pint glass jars. Add 1/2 teaspoon salt to each jar. Seal jars. Process in pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure for 85 minutes.

Proves Pike Live In Long Lake

The conservation department's unofficial fishing ambassador, Harold S. Olsen, continues to prove that big fish exist in lakes where many anglers have definite opinions to the contrary.

The Lansing native, up to his old tricks, this time pulled 10- and 12-pound walleyes out of Cheboygan county's Long Lake to the tune of "oohs" and "aahs" from less fortunate fishermen. Answering the deluge of queries from shore crowds Olsen admitted the job took persistence and four-day club bait, but modestly failed to include another important factor — fishing knowhow.

Netting demonstrations by state fishery crews several years ago provided evidence that walleyes inhabit the lake, yet anglers continue to have little luck in catching them. On one fishing trip this summer, Olsen pulled his limit of walleyes from Higgins lake.
