The lunch will be served from 12 noon until eight p.m. It will be served fair style, with a great variety to choose from. Baked beans, hamburgers and hot dogs, pies, cake, cole slaw, ice cream, and pop will comprise a typical fair menu.

In addition to the inner needs of fair goers, Christmas shopping needs can be satisfied at the fair. Fancy work, aprons, handkerchiefs, flowers, baked goods, cards and wrappings will be sold at the fair. Just to give it more atmosphere, a clown will hawk balloons and a fortune teller will predict fair-goers' fortunes. A dart game and a grab bag will keep the youngsters busy.

After songs and skits by all the troops, one of Mrs. Russell's Scout 11, a campfire, as Barbara Westlake recited "The Call of the Fire". A representative from each troop then threw a handful of faggots on the fire as another girl expressed a wish for other Girl Scouts all over the world. All the Girl Scouts joined together in singing "Peace of the Sun".

Then Mrs. Haskell, president of the association, lit a candle from the campfire, which in turn, lit candles of leaders, then candles held by the girls.
