

CLARENCEVILLE NEWS

Mrs. Henry Troutaud
Phone Farm. 1038.

It looks as though our beautiful summer and fall are nearly done. Although most of us are planning for Christmas, the celebration will be a meager one for many who have been affected by the steel strike. Yours Truly should feel very pensive a few days at the William Hawleys of Lansing, and a four-and-one-half year old nephew. Prices there seem to be generally lower, perhaps because the incomes are also less.

Mrs. N. Cook of 21401 Ontago is surely busy these days, caring for two households. Her daughter, Mrs. A. Lurmerand, had an operation at the Highland Park Osteopathic Hospital last Monday. She came home Wednesday and will be laid up for several weeks. Her home is on Lahser Road in Redford, so it's plain it takes some traveling back and forth. Mrs. John Lewis has also been helping.

Mrs. Myrtle Lankey of Waldron Avenue had Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sandfort of Detroit out for the day Sunday.

Dinner and a game of cards were enjoyed by Mrs. Richard Fisher of Detroit on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daily, of Hawthorne Avenue in Floral Park. Mrs. Norman Ball of 2034 St. Francis had a serious operation on Wednesday, November 2, at the New Grace Hospital. She is expected home Tuesday.

Mr. George O'Brian, a professional organist, who lives on Angling Road, had a good idea. He has one of the new jeeps, and on the outside he has painted a music staff.

musical notes painted on it to form his initials. His home, on which he has done most of the work, is really a showplace. Lovely trees, winding drive, stone pillars, and a wrought iron fence complete the picture.

Mrs. Edna Dohany of Eight Mile Road enjoyed the company of her old friend, Mrs. May Lane, over the week end.

Mrs. William DeBozy of 21002 Wheeler is anticipating the visit of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mummary, from Hartman, West Virginia. They will be here the 10th to stay over Thanksgiving, which is also the birthday of Mrs. DeBozy.

We are glad to hear that Rolfe Lee of Adams Street has recovered from polio. He came home Saturday from the hospital.

The Parents Institute at Ann Arbor, Thursday, Wednesday and Thursday was an interesting experience for those who could attend. Mrs. Robert Dennis and Mrs. Otto Hart went to the Wednesday session, and Mr. Tom Wilson, president of the P. T. A. and Mr. Robert Dennis, Secretary, went to the evening session. Dr. J. J. Giles, from New York, gave a talk Wednesday morning on Human Relations. Further discussions on relations between children, parents and the school were also carried out.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dennis of Dresden Avenue entertained Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mitchell and family on Sunday evening.

Mrs. Ken Durham, of 20906 Ontago, visited friends in Detroit Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Woodcox, and their newly married daughter, Wanda, and her husband enjoyed supper and the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Earle on Eight Mile Road Saturday.

Our Clarenceville Cub Scouts are really coming along. Their program, which includes Cubbing requirements and lots of handicraft, is going along full speed. They have added two more Dens to their pack. They will present their Indian Program at the P. T. A. Christmas party.

For the benefit of parents in Clarenceville, the Home Economics class at the Clarenceville High School has started a baby-sitters club. It's headed by Mrs. Mummary, Home Ec teacher. The girls have an average age of 14. All have had experience in baby sitting.

Edgemoor Items

We have two couples in our neighborhood who have solved the cold weather problem — at least temporarily. They are Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Mann of 20550 12 Mile Road, who are on an extended vacation trip through the South, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson of 21100 Edgemoor Drive, who left two weeks ago to bunk on the beaches in sunny California. They will be gone a month.

The Richard Ittis family of 27200 Edgemoor Drive enjoyed a three pleasant dinner which Mrs. Ittis served with all the trimmings. The children's grandparents came over for the hunting season feast.

Miss Patricia Adams of 30739 12 Mile Road spent a week with the Athmans of Grosse Pointe.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Prebo of Grayling Avenue entertained some of their friends at a gathering in their new home. Attending were Miss Grace Rooks, Mrs. Richard Drabos, Miss Frances Farbo, Mary Lou Foster, Imelda Sullivan, Miss and have had one unit on child care. The girls have set up rules and a list of responsibilities — one for sitters and one for parents. In the way of advertising, the girls have made posters and also had cards made for each girl who is a member. Each girl has a little notebook, too, in which she keeps track of where she goes, how old the child was, how long she stayed, etc. There is also a place for remarks as to whether liked or not, and what problems came up. The girls charge minimum rates for their services. Parents interested can contact the telephone secretary, Winnie Lawerson. She will give you the names of two baby sitters in your neighborhood. They suggest that the girls get there early enough so that they can become acquainted with the child before the parents leave. The telephone number of the secretary is Farmington 1424.

More Deer Found By Conservation Department

Conservation officers found it considerably easier to spot deer in their annual late summer months survey in upstate deer country this year. Actually, officers had to do about one-third less patrolling in order to locate the same number of deer spotted in 1948.

While on regular patrol duty, officers saw more deer per hour of checking in every county except Gogebic. Gogebic county was considered about the same as last year. In the northern lower peninsula, heart of the deer country, they noted more animals in 25 locations and less in eight.

This year officers observed 72 deer per hundred hours of patrolling. In the northern lower peninsula, contrasted to 43 deer for the same time in 1948. Upper Peninsula officers observed 46 deer per hundred hours.

Wanda Palmer, Miss Jan Palazo, Miss Barbara Dick, Mr. Ray Kalil, Mr. Paul Thomas, Mr. John McSloy, Mr. Edward Pogozelski, and Mr. Bill Brown. One couple not acquainted with the section never did find their way to the Prebo home. The directions Mrs. Prebo gave changed from the time she mailed them to the time of the gathering.

Mr. Ray Layland of 28624 Grayling left for Chelsea, Michigan, last Friday night on a "coon hunt". Along with him went his two sons, Donald and Robert, and Glenn Howard and two fellow employees of Mr. Layland, Stew and Mel. Mrs. Layland packed midnight snacks and very hot coffee for the all night hunt.

Bob Layland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Layland of Grayling Avenue, invited his senior classmates over to his house last Saturday for a party. Everyone had a picnic of a good time. Mrs. Layland furnished the cats, while the seniors furnished the noise. Some of the cars around as if they had left their mufflers behind — in the garage. Bob is a senior at the Clarenceville High School.
