Sincerely Yours . . . Minister Says Moral, Not Religious Training Given In Public Schools

Letters submitted to the Editor for publication must be signed. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writer and do not necessarily represent the policies of this newspaper.

To The Editor:

After reading Mr. Samuel H. Kosmenky's letter regarding the Supreme Court ruling on the question of teaching religion in the public schools in last week's issue of The Farmington Enterprise, in which he accuses the Board of Education of the Farmington Schools of perpetrating a Federal offense by permitting religious education in our schools, I decided to write this letter so that Mr. Kosmenky might have the exact truth of the situation before him. What is actually taking place is simply this: Three Protestant churches in Farmington are supporting a teacher in character training, who uses Bible stories as her method. Her work is known to the Board as that character education. The Bible is being used as a body of literature from which stories of unquestionable value in moral culture are selected. These stories are being told and their moral applied just as stories from the life of Washington or the life of Lincoln, or the life of any other great person can be used and applied to impress a boy or girl.
