petition in other states. Those surrounding states average 20 to 40 cents an hour lower wage rates than Michigan, so the labor advantage today has been entirely removed.

"Utilities in Michigan have spent millions of dollars in bringing natural gas and cheap fuels. That is important to the state. However, the last few years has seen a gradual reduction in the number of industries operating in Michigan. Just in mid-January, two firms which had been in Detroit for 50 years announced they were moving to adjoining states.

"The Chicago Pneumatic Fuel Company came to Detroit with the Burroughs Adding Machine Company. The Diamond Farm Specialty Company was born and developed in Michigan.

"In Muskegon at least five old reliable, substantial industries have closed their doors. There are vacant plants in Jackson and Port Huron.

Large automobile companies are carrying on a wide-spread decentralization program. Why? "There is a general feeling among Michigan corporations that the state is unfriendly, that corporations are confronted with an unfriendly administration, and that with other advantages elsewhere, Michigan no longer is inviting," states Lovett.

It is the judgment of Lovett, spokesman for Michigan corporations, that we should thoroughly investigate the possibilities of economy in state and local government. Conceding that the sales tax amendment diverts 75 per cent of the sales tax revenues back to home governments, Lovett believes it is embarrassing to some townships and local communities to have so much money they don't know what to do with it. Lovett would either do away with the sales tax and come forward with some other direct form of taxation or he would require local communities to assume many of the burdens the state is now attempting to carry with reduced revenues.

In conclusion let me say that "there is no need for a new tax. If the time ever comes when we need new taxes in Michigan, let's be honest about our proposals.

"Let us not try to say to the people of the state that by an indirect tax they are not paying a tax. Direct taxation is the only honest type of taxation. Then we are not building up a pyramid of concealed charges against the consumer.

A final shot: "I believe any impartial investigation would show that the state does not need any new revenues of any kind," said Mr. Lovett.

This in brief, is the case of the state corporations against the Williams corporation profits tax program.

U-M Started Courses For Teachers In 1858

The University of Michigan has been training teachers since 1858. So-called "teachers' courses" in academic subjects were established in that year. A special teachers' diploma was authorized in 1874. These certificates had no legal value until 1891 when the University was authorized by the State Legislature to issue teaching certificates which were good in any public school in Michigan.

The School of Education, now one of the University's 14 units, was organized in 1921.

"Sweet's the sweet" was originally said by Shakespeare in the last act of Hamlet.

Collective farms in the U.S.R. are called Kolkhozes.

GERMANS TO STUDY AMERICAN JUSTICE AT MSC INSTITUTE

Top German police officials will study first-hand the administration of justice in a democracy this spring in a special Michigan State College program subsidized by the U. S. State Department.

Michigan State will pioneer a four-month pilot course in May for twelve German city chiefs of police. The institute will be administered by the MSC department of police administration. Similar programs will be sponsored later, according to Prof. Ralph F. Turner. Plans for the curriculum have not been completed, Turner said, but it will include equal parts of classroom and laboratory work, and field studies.

Janet Robertson Gets Degree From U. Of M.

A diploma is being mailed to Janet Robertson, 24337 Farmington Road, who is one of the 1,515 graduates who completed requirements for degrees during the fall semester at the University of Michigan. No formal exercises are held in February since the University stages its commencement in June.

The February graduates are all eligible to take part in the June program. Miss Myra Biddlecome, diploma clerk, said the 1,515 graduates established a new record for February. The previous mid-year mark was established in 1948 when 1,432 received degrees.
