THE TAR TRUCK . however, managed to fight its way through to patch up some of the cavittes in Farmington's main street. There's still plenty of work for it to do however, and we expect to see it back—often. This winter has been extremely rough on all ronds. But its surely will be nice when summer comes and we can glide down the thoroughfares smooth and anayy, without having to wonder which way the car will lurch next. On the other hand, maybe it would be a good idea to leave the holes as they are — surely it would slow down some of the Hurry-Up boys.

THE WANDERLUST .

spirit is beginning to show itself again after a long absence. Last spirit is beginning to show itself again after a long absence. Last Sounday afternoon, thraffic in, through and about Farmington took a decided upturn, strongly reminiscent of last summer. Once again, the folks from our Sizeable Suburt on the east are beginning to wander out into the country to enry us. We're mighty glid to have them, too. Question — where do all those convertibles go in the winter?

ONE OF THOSE... which no household should be is being given away now down at The Enterprise. Naturally, we refer to the 1550 Michingan State Perry Schedule. We got 'em — who wants 'em' I you're planning on deserting Farmington for an Upper Michigan stay, better pick up one of these schedules. I'll come in handy. No charge — just drop in Friday or Saturday and pick one up.

From the plans were planted by the time the fire department got there. By this time last year, the fire laddles had run themselves ragged trying to catch up with all the blazing lawns. There's no doubt that well have our share and a lot more if folks aren't just a whole lot more careful when they step out to burn a few waste papers. When the time is ripe, it doesn't take much of anything to get a whole field blazing. As an added wet blanket for grass fires, you'll need a permit for open fires this year, which you can get from the fire chief, Leo Hendryx, down at Curt Hail's Pontiac Agency.

HERE WE GO... again. The garden freaks are beginning to make themselves known. This week we have Mrs. Beryl Landgren's amaryllis — who's next? We're always glad to hear about such things — and who isn't — so give us a burz next time your tulips lift the side of the roof off your house, or your apple tree bears oranges. Most folks who live around here keep gardens, and they like to know what the competitor's doing, so don't keep your horticultural freak a secret — let us know about it.

THOSE BOW TIES... showed up again this week. We noticed a group of the bows gathered around City Clerk Harry Moore valiantly, and vainly, preaching the merits of the bow versus the common four-in-hand tie. Harry says he's a little affail of the bow - fears it carries a political connotation with it, which he couldn't tolerate. Presumably, Farmington's voltag record would rele out the possibility of the predominant political party's being confused.

Census Takers Start Interviews

Census District Enumerator Mrs. Eino W. Mattson, 20303 W. Hampton, Southfield Township, caught this township resident unprepared for company last Saturday morning when the 17th Decennial census got under way. Census takers reported good cooperation from residents. Actual questioning takes less than ten minutes, according to enumerators, but "eample" cases (every fifth person checked) take five minutes long that that. The census-taking will continue past the two week period originally set up.
