Reveal Decline In Commercial Fish Output

Good catches of smelt were not enough to prevent commercial fish production in Michigan Great Lakes waters from declining 847,000 pounds in March and April.

Latest complete fishing reports to the conservation department show a total haul of 2,315,000 pounds as compared to 3,662,000 in the same two months of 1980.

Hello, this is the time of the year when it takes less effort to go fishing than to do anything else.

So with that start, perhaps we should tell you of an old guide would be here when we assured to hire when we assured in Northern Michigan. We thought he was a wonder when it came to spotting the best flahing grounds, but he was amply fantastic when it came to putting away the hops that cheer. His gabin, he maintained, was 10 miles to town or 12 miles from town. When asked how come, he said he figured he followed a much stranghter line coming in. So with that start, perhaps W on a vacation soon, may we re-spectfully suggest that you give the car a motor tune-up and a complete fubrication. There's no percentage in spending the last half of your vacation hitch-hik-ing.

Now we wouldn't know about that, being strictly temperate in habits and inclination. Besides we don't like the terrible nogsin the stuff can give us. When we were in school we were taught that the shortest distance between two points was a straight line, but conditions being what they are these days we won't argue. The only thing we're sare of is that the most ECONOMI-CAL distance between two points is that driven by the new STUDEBAKER. The only good feature we can discover in crease of great and the condition of the control per gallon you'll get from your Studebaker will eventually get you back a goodly portion of the money you paid for the car.

In answer to the above pargraph we hope you'll adopt the method of the husband who dis-covered an unfailing means of having the last word in a marital argument. He simply says, "all right."

Yours.
