Top Public Relations Honors Awarded MSC Top award of best press relations with national magazines was presented to the Michigan State College Department of Information Services (formerly the Public Relations Department), at the national conference of the American College Public Relations Association held at the University of Michigan. The award was accepted by W. Lowell Treaster, director of the department. It is the fourth national public relations award won by MSC in the past five years. In 1946 and 1947 the department took the top news photo awards.

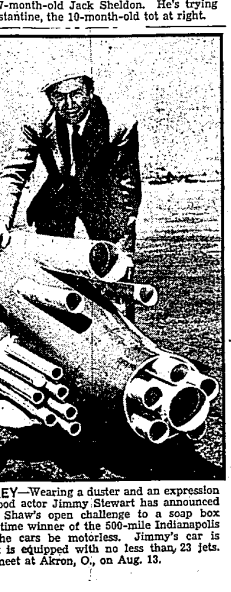

CARD OF THANKS The family of Norman Barrons wish to express their thanks to the many, many friends, merchants and members of the staff who assisted in 1950 for all their kindness during our recent bereavement.

BOTTOMS UP - New York City small fry are no different from kids in any other part of the country. When the "Big Top" goes up, they're half-way under it, circus policy permitting. Here the "peeping toms" preview the Cole Brothers Circus menagerie, adjacent to Yankee Stadium.

KIDDIES, BE SEATED! - England's younger generation know how to keep cool. They just meander down to London's open-air Endell Street baths and set themselves on a cool rip of water, leaving more inhibited grown-ups to wade sodalily. The water-pouring expert at left is 7-month-old Jack Sheldon. He's trying to impress Stephen Constantine, the 10-month-old tot at right.

JIMMY, THE JET JOCKEY - Wearing a duster and an expression of determined determination, Jimmy Siewick has announced that he'll accept Wilbur Shaw's open challenge to a soap box derby race. Shaw, three-time winner of the 500-mile Indianapolis classic, stipulated that the cars be motorless. Jimmy's car is engineless, alright, but it is equipped with no less than 23 fets. The pair will meet at Akron, O., on Aug. 13.

CHRISTOPHER, ILL. - The campaign of Victor G. Leiker, 33-year-old editor of the Chicago Christopher Progress here, against irregularities in relief administration has brought gratifying results. Four townships were notified they will lose their state grants of more than $60,000. In the meantime, they show evidence that the irregularities have been cleared up. Leiker pressed his campaign against boss rule despite the loss of substantial advertising accounts.

Argue For Shooting Of Does And Fawns Arguments for regulated shooting of does and fawns during special seasons in areas of Michigan where the winter food supply of deer is exhausted or menaced are contained in a new conservation department publication.

The story of Michigan's deer herd down the years is told in the 66-page pamphlet, "Michigan Deer," published by the department's game division.

Written by I. H. Bartlett, the department's deer authority, the pamphlet and booklet, "Deer," a revision of his earlier text "White-tails," published in 1933.

Michigan's deer herd "has no outdoors its winter food supply in Michigan's deer herd," says a new report. "Hundreds of square miles of winter range are being ruined by overpopulation and thousands of deer are being lost and wasted annually through starvation. Such a condition cannot continue indefinitely. Either the herd must be cut down to fit its natural food supply, or it will go down naturally. If we wait for nature to act, the result will be browned-out deer range and small deer herds in the future."

Pointing out that "the income to Michigan people, directly or indirectly, because of the deer herd runs into millions of dollars annually," Bartlett states, "The coming few years are tremendously important, and that 'the range' - the subsistence of the deer - must be conserved by proper herd management, beginning now.

QUASH BEAR STORY Conservation authorities moved today to quash a story about a bear killing in Lapeer County that has caused embarrassment.

The story, printed in some newspapers, was that a Forests district resident might be arrested for killing a bear that had invaded his front porch.

Many persons wrote the department protesting such "high-handed" action against a man who was defending life and property.

The department patiently explains that it is legal to shoot bears in Lapeer County at any time, and that any person, anywhere in Michigan, can protect himself against bears at any time, by any means.

U-M GROUP HUNTS MIGRATION TRAILS IN ALEUTIANS

Trails of America's first inhabitants will be traced with a Geiger counter by the University of Michigan Aleutian Islands Expedition this summer.

Ancient village sites and burial caves in Iceland off Alaska will be studied. Materials recovered will be processed by the carbon 14 method of dating by radioactivity to determine, if possible, when man first came ashore in the area according to Theodore P. Bank II, expedition field director.

Anthropologists believe man's earliest migrations into North America were made across the Bering Strait or along the Aleutian chain of islands - or both routes.

Bank does not expect to find all the answers this summer. He was a member of a similar expedition in 1945-49 jointly sponsored by the U. S. Navy and Michigan and plans to make other trips to the islands.

Members of the 1956 expedition are Harvey A. Miller and Louis S. Jorda, assistants in the University of Michigan; Glenn, Donald S. McClain, Jr., Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, and Bank II, Miller, a graduate student, lives on Rural Route 2, Sturgis.

The Biological Garden is making an extended study of plants on the islands. Michigan's Memorial Phoenix Project, devoted to peacetime uses of atomic energy and its implications, is making the Geiger counter to be used in dating the materials found by the expedition.

The center, nearing completion at the University, will accurately establish the age of former living matter by detecting the radio activity remaining in carbon parts of the materials.

BIG SUPPLY MAKES 'BEANS A "NATURAL" FOR THIRTY MEALS Boston made the bean famous, but Michigan grows the beans. Let's take a tip from the frugal New Englanders and use most of the more-than-abundant supply of dry beans, suggests Mary Bodwell, food economist at Michigan State College.

Some 10 million beans were produced last year that a National Bean Week is now being observed to call attention to the merits of this food.

Here are a few tips about dry beans that homemakers should find helpful in weeks ahead. You'll find the pork and bean combination unbeatable. It's one of those "natural" food combinations alert homemakers seek to please the family and make food budget money go farther.

Make each cup of your best bean dishes a taste treat by generous use of seasonings which blend well with beans. Try tomatoes, onions, mushrooms, brown sugar, ketchup or spices and meat flavors in combinations.

To further insure satisfaction at the table, observe these basic bean-cooking rules. When you start, allow plenty of time for soaking, and soak in soft water if you can. Hard water toughens the skin. Keep heat low when cooking dry beans soak up a lot of water.

As far as dried bean quality is concerned, you have little to worry about, Miss Bodwell says. You are likely to be buying a Michigan product, and all beans packed in the state are carefully graded by processors. Michigan grows more than one-fourth of the nation's beans, and more than nine-tenths of the popular Navy or Pea bean varieties.

STATE CAMPING FEES Camping fees at state parks and recreation areas must be paid in advance but the cash register is obtained for the number of days to be spent in the park, conservation department parks division officials have reported.

Refund cannot be made except in case of illness, death in the family or other emergency. Camera who can't stay the whole time paid for reasons other than emergency, may make arrangements with the park manager to return to the same park later in the year and be credited for the unused time.

A fee of 50 cents per day is charged campers for water, garbage disposal, and use of toilet buildings. Electricity is an add-on charge each day for those who use it.

No fee is charged for admittance to state parks or for any recreational use other than camping.

Late Mating Season For Ruffed Grouse

First reports on the conservation department's annual ruffed grouse brood and clutch count confirm game men's expectations of a late nesting season this year.

Only one brood was seen the first two weeks of the count, in comparison with 14 in the corresponding period in 1949. Sixteen nests were counted, half as many as last year's total count. Each nest averaged 11.5 eggs.

State conservation officers, foresters and game men and federal forest rangers are making the count, which began in May and will end in the latter part of August in the upper peninsula and northern section of the lower peninsula. The late nesting season may be an advantage as there has been favorable hatching weather, which is not always the case, when nesting is earlier.

ROLLING DOWN THE RIVER

By Bob Kettler

We read an article the other day that said "Applied Puffery" is a derogatory term for "glory cuts article smoking." When we were young, a properly applied hairbrush delivered the same effect.

Now that we're older and stronger, we smoke and enjoy it, except of course, when we happen to listen to two or more cigarette commercials on the same evening. Then we get all confused and wonder if our listless feeling doesn't derive from the cigarette we smoke, instead of the remarks we try to listen to another program.

This column doesn't get into paid testimonials when talking about the 1950 Studebaker. No doctor is going to come out of the woodwork to try to drive one because it's easier on your throat - or commercials. We'll just tell you what customers tell us, and they tell us what we're proud of their car. When they come in and say they get twenty-five miles to the gallon, we'll make a slight allowance for over-enthusiasm and report that it's only twenty - two. If they're happy, we're happy, and will shade their remarks just in case the one you buy does twenty-three.

Now that the holidays are over, many a traveler, the live ones that is, will have discovered the fact that a guest towel is a small body of slightly absorbent linen entirely surrounded by water-proof embroidery.

How was your holiday and how did your car stand the bumper-bumper traffic? If your car collected a few dents have our body repair experts take them out. It needs a tune-up see George in the shop. If you need a new car see our salesmen and let the remains of the old car yourself, see Wilson for a truck to haul it back in.

Yours, BOB KETTLER
