Find Out For Yourself . . .

what zoning in Farmington Township is and what it means to you. Learn the facts first hand and help eliminate confusion and false rumors.

It is important to you to know the truth, about vital matters. That is why, in a short time, public meetings will be held to inform the public first hand about proposed zoning in the township. In addition, it gives every resident an opportunity to suggest and contribute to the future progress of his community.

No one should overlook this opportunity. No one, that is, who is interested in his investment in Farmington Township. There should be no confusion, no false impressions, if everyone listens and thinks. That is the purpose of public meetings. Unfortunately, too few have taken the trouble to learn the facts in the past.

The Enterprise is not trying to channel your opinion. We are not yet familiar with the provisions of the proposed zoning ordinance, and thus are certainly not prepared to express an opinion. We are, however, in the interest of honest and intelligent action, encouraging every resident to participate in the coming public hearings on zoning.

It's a "must" for every progressive thinking citizen of our growing township.

There's No Future . . .

in helping those who won't help themselves. So far for citizens of the United States as well as Europe and Asia.

The Farmington Kiwanis Club was fortunate last week in hearing an inspiring talk by a former member of the Dutch Underground. In addition to his description of life in a German concentration camp, he left some challenging words for all of us to think about. One of the most important was encouraging men to help themselves.

Democracy can not be bought like a sack of potatoes. It must be conceived and developed from doing. The people of Europe needed food, clothing and shelter immediately following World War II and they got it through the Marshall Plan. It was a price all of us were willing to pay in the interest of humanity. But, unfortunately for America as well as Europe, the emergency flow of dollars is still pouring into Europe. We say unfortunately because it is money intended to buy something that can't be bought — initiative, incentive and freedom.

If Democracy is to "take" in Europe and Asia it must be earned. We must sell our way of life by encouraging others to grow as we have grown. American Democracy developed, not out of a flowing well of capital from a foreign nation, but out of a desire to improve individually as well as collectively. We earned our way and became strong because of it.

Aid to Europe and Asia must continue, but it must be more than just American dollars. It must be help and guidance in better manufacturing practices, improved production methods, broader trade outlets. In return we should expect some consideration on our investment. It is one of the basic principles of Democracy, paying your way and meeting your obligations.

Most nations are willing to meet this challenge, but they have not been adequately encouraged to do so. It is not so much the actual money that America is concerned with — it is the fulfillment of a goal. The goal of encouraging others to help themselves — to find security and self assurance — yes, to find true Democracy.

A Steady Hand . . .

has been added to the ship of State. General George C. Marshall has climbed up to the pilot house. Already the ship has steadied after floundering for months in a choppy sea. The only muttering has come from the few who seem to object to the elevation of a military man to the Secretary of Defense job. However, in the case of Marshall, the United States has a serious and capable leader, military or not, who has and can work honestly with all elements of the Army, Navy and Marines. More important, he has the respect of all the people.

General Marshall's willingness to forego retirement to further serve his country in a difficult assignment should be an inspiration to all of us.

BIBLE COMMENT
Samuel Was a Wise Prophet, as Well as a Man of Action
So great a judge of Israel was Samuel, that many are tempted to forget Samuel's example as a prophet, a man of action.

So great a judge of Israel was Samuel, that many are tempted to forget Samuel's example as a prophet, a man of action. His duty and destiny in this direction was marked from the very beginning. Not all boys condescended to good tasks by their mother fulfill their parents' fond expectations. Samuel, though, was a happy exception. He responded with vigor and zeal to his mother's encouragement of religious training.

With scholarly devotion he applied himself to the lessons of Eli, the high priest in the temple, preparing to become Eli's well-desired successor. And in contrast to Eli's reprobate sons, Samuel became a sincere and devoted priest, a lover of Israel, thoroughly consecrated to the well-being of his people.

Decades ago we would have decried Samuel's example as one full of brutality and ruthlessness. It is with sad reflection that we must admit that his era was not too different from ours, although bloodshed then was not comparable to the human destruction of modern-day weapons are capable of.

In all the tragic history of the Jews, never has there been such slaughter as in our own time, which has seen the doom of millions. Yet for sheer horror no Samuel taking the life of Agag with his own hand. Agag was the ancient foe of the Israelites and committed many atrocities before Samuel "heaved him into pieces before the Lord."

Unlike many modern-day prophets, Samuel was also a man of action. Glib promises and sugar-coated propaganda made little headway with Samuel, who was a stern believer in love and truth.

It is fitting, as we do battle against the ruthless North Korean, that we remember the uncompromising manner in which Samuel dealt with the tyrant Agag. His last words to Agag were, "As thy sword hath made women childless, so shall thy mother be childless among women."

MICHIGAN MIRROR

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By GENE ALLEMAN

The political furor has died out temporarily while newly-nominate candidates bolster bulwarks and load ammunition for the November election. And so Michigan eyes again turn toward Korea, Europe and spiraling prices and wages here at home.

Bringing the war closer home is the fact that young Michigan men now are entering the army at the rate of more than 1,800 per week. Machinery creaked to a start, but now appears to be operating smoothly. Inductions are expected to increase.

And although 250,000 men have been classified in the state, there have been but 300 appeals from the draft. Answer? Proper classification by draft boards has left no grounds for appeal.

Economists still agree that the current postwar binge just can not last. That as Shakespeare said, "the times are out of joint". News columns verify that prices of industrial raw materials and finished products continue to push higher.

Among these prices most affecting Michigan is that of rubber, which is at a 25-year high.

The expected labor shortage in Michigan is well on its way. Some plans are refusing to hire draft-age men and turning to women workers. But the babushka parade is not expected to reach World War II proportions.

Another influx of workers from the South is reported under way in the industrial regions. With housing still strained these persons may be forced to take only what is available. Result? New and larger slums.

Max C. Henderson, executive secretary of Michigan Field Crops, Inc., has asked government officials to keep enforcement of housing and wage standards out of the farm labor picture. Says it would mean "regulation on paper only." He adds that such restrictions usually mean a nice group "of people drawing government salaries."

The migrant question is not new to Michigan. These migratory workers helped harvest the cherries which will furnish cherries for the army. Growers and packers around Peaville and Pav Farm are furnishing 36,825 cans of sour pitted cherries to the army.

Also on the farm side: Michigan farmers who opposed raising Danish Red cattle in the state will be interested to know these bovines now have been crossed to make American Red Danish cattle, many of which produce more than 500 pounds of butterfat. The experiment was tried in Sanilac.

Looking Back Through The Enterprise Files

Forty Years Ago (September 23, 1910)
State Bank
The Farmington Exchange Bank, which has been run as a private bank since its organization twelve years ago, will in a few days be made a State bank. The name will remain the same and all the stockholders the following officers were elected Thursday night: President, Fred M. Warner; vice president, Samuel D. Holcomb; cashier, Clinton W. Wilbur. Treasurer, Harry N. McCracken and M. Byron Pierce, will constitute the board of directors.

Ten Years Ago (September 26, 1940)
Football Team Meets Northville
Off to a flying start with a 20 to 0 victory over Redford Union, the Farmington High School football team will take on Northville Friday afternoon at Northville. Last year the Blue and White topped Northville 13 to 0, and Shoemaker's team will be out to duplicate their success again this year.

Theater Opening Draws Crowd
At one of the brightest, gayest affairs ever seen in Farmington, more than 400 persons gathered Thursday evening to celebrate the opening of the new Civic Theater. Bright lights, colorful gowns, and an atmosphere of "opening night" anticipation made it a long to be remembered night in Farmington.

Five Years Ago (September 20, 1945)
Post Claims Distinction
When Robert C. VanEvery of the United States Navy recently became a member of the Groves-Ford Post of the American Legion, his membership brought a most unusual distinction to the Post. Robert's father, also a member of the post, and his grandfather, Rue VanEvery, are also members of the post, and thus three generations are represented.

War Bond Awards Given
Mrs. Hattie DeVriendt, commander of the Farmington Women's Volunteer Corps, awarded gold bars this week to Mrs. Mary Lenz and Mrs. Arlene Barnes, who have captured the Bond-selling units. Other awards, including several bronze bars, will be awarded workers at a later date.

Max C. Henderson, executive secretary of Michigan Field Crops, Inc., has asked government officials to keep enforcement of housing and wage standards out of the farm labor picture. Says it would mean "regulation on paper only." He adds that such restrictions usually mean a nice group "of people drawing government salaries."
