ANNUAL J-HOP HELD SATURDAY, JAN. 26 IN THE GYMNASIUM

Approximately 75 couples attended the annual Junior Class J-Hop "Showboat," Saturday, January 26, in the high school gym. Decorations represented the deck of a showboat. A water wheel was on the south wall and a galley on the east. Tables were along three walls and were roped off. Two smoke stacks were in the middle of the floor and flags were hung around and across the gym. Murals were painted on the walls. Music was provided by Ray Ober-schulte and his orchestra. Refreshments were served from the galley. A. A.

The Dates To Get Break At Valentine Dance

The Sophomore class is going to hold its annual Valentine's dance, "Heart's Content," February 9, from 8:30 to 11:00 in the high school gym. The Sophomores decided to try something different in order to encourage dating. The students who bring dates will get in at a lower price than those who go solo. N. G.

RELIGION, OUR LAST CHANCE

In America today, the greatest possession, religion?

Our forefathers thought contrary to the statement of today. When they composed the Preamble to the Declaration of Independence, they immediately brought out the thought of man's relationship to God, and that no Supreme Court, Congress, or State Legislature, they could not exist, among the citizens of our nation unless it was based on religious principles. During the time of Washington, the people never thought of separating church from state because they truly believed that religion, morality, and knowledge were necessary for good government. We praise our forefathers for their accomplishments, but we try to forget their religious principles.

The late John Parkes Cadman, who for many years was a regular Sunday speaker over a national hookup of radio stations, said before the Brooklyn YMCA in 1924: "Religious education is the largest task that faces the world today. Culture alone cannot sustain it. If it could, Athens would be the center of civilization."

We need religion more now than we ever needed it before. The state of affairs in this world is at a crisis. Our religious beliefs clash with the atheistic Russia.

The Communists realize the importance of religion. The first thing they did in Russia was to close all churches and exile their clergy. The first thing that Russia did when their agents took charge of the governments of Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania was to close all religious schools. Communist doctrines were substituted. This troubled world has looked in vain for pacific solitude. Our ideas seem to be at a state of exhaustion, but we still overlook our forefathers' immortal words.

There will be peace if, and only if, the citizenry of the universal world go to their knees in prayer! Mankind is trying in vain to solve his problems; why not submit them to our Creator? N. R.

Art Department Features Freshman's Paintings

The second Art Department display features work by Arterla Aikens. The display has been shown this week and ends today.

Arterla has a series of landscapes with emphasis on color rather than details. The paintings are done in poster paints.

Also exhibited are four dress material designs done in poster paints.

HERE AND THERE WITH THE ALUMNI

"Showboat," the annual J-Hop was attended by many alumni. Jim Yuth, Charlotte Matthews, Doug Thompson, Duane Baggett, Annabel Blair, Dave Robertson, Deloris Wysock, Jack Hibbert and Lee Larthur were present.

Janet Sowers, John Kargetta, Janet Wheaton and Gail Malmgren were home from college and also attended the J-Hop.

Winston Zajack is now attending night classes at the Detroit Business Institute.
