point one, he's liable to do the same.

And so what has happened at Jackson. Joe Sanford was warden. At this time, he still is considered as having been a good warden. But when the opposition party took control, he quit before he was fired.

General Frisbee was hired, and up until this time had been considered a fine warden. But the parole board has been changed constantly. The prison officials have been moved around.

Every time the politicians grunt there is another move made to "improve" conditions in the world's largest prison.

Ernest C. Brooks took over as corrections commissioner. A good man, he has disavowed politics (he's a Democrat) and run things fairly, if quietly. He has been afraid of the press.

His head is on the block now. Warden Frisbee is looking up at the axe. The Marines probably look good to the former general at this time. But the riots also have made persons. Deputy Warden Vernon Fox, by the simple expedient of being a "good guy" and made himself so well liked among the prisoners that they would negotiate only with him. Fox may go places. If he becomes a politician!

Leonard, former state police commissioner, long has voiced fears of such a riot. Bill Burke, who once was prison industry chief, now in the same capacity at the Iowa state prison, also warned against an uprising.

The day before the riot, the Iowa prison board heard a study report commending to the state the Jackson set-up. Burke said, "Watch the place, it's full of dynamite. He was right. And now the en(tire issue, dead as it is, is being exploited by both parties.

But does that help the warden for 18 years had cared for the greenhouse? The old man wept when he saw what the rioters had done to his work. The political issue still will seethe despite the old man's tears.

And nothing much can be done. Except formulate a solid and consistent policy in the prison—with solid and consistent men in charge.

STUMP FISHERMEN ON TROUT SPECIES IN RESEARCH TEST

If you caught a trout could you tell whether it was a brook, brown or rainbow?

A surprising number of trout fishermen, roughly 40 per cent, cannot, judging from a poll conducted by the conservation department's institute for fisheries research.

Over 300 trout fishermen working specially designated sections of the Pigeon and Rifle rivers and Hunt creek were asked to identify the three kinds of trout which were exhibited at checking stations. All three trout were correctly identified by 62 per cent of those who co-operated in the test at the Pigeon station, 56 per cent of those at Hunt creek and 54 per cent of those braving the test at the Rifle station. A few declined to hazard a guess.

Sixty-four persons trapped on identifying the brown, 60 on the rainbow and 54 had trouble choosing the brook trout.

PAY BIG BOUNTY

State payment of $800 to Charles Meli of Chatham for a coyote is believed by the conservation department to be the largest bounty ever paid to one trapper at one time.
