JACKSON RIOT BROUGHT OUT CIVIL DEFENSE
Rioting at Southern Michigan Prison, from Sunday night April 20 to Thursday afternoon, April 24, gave the Jackson County Civil Defense organization its first work-out under actual emergency conditions. Civil Defense auxiliaries, along with regular emergency agencies, responded to the situation with speed and efficiency. Captain William Townsend, County Civil Defense Director, reports. Firemen, alerted during the entire uprising, spent 12 hours at the scene of action. Eight fire units from suburban townships, manned by 47 men, spent a total of 611 man-hours actually fighting flames which destroyed the laundry and seriously damaged other buildings. Men and units from Summit, Henriette and Blackman Townships were on duty at the prison. Leon Township sent part of its force to the Blackman station to protect the area while Blackman had all of its apparatus tied up at the prison. No township was left unprotected while the riot was in progress. Civil Defense auxiliary police were mobilized on Monday at the height of the uprising. In the City of Jackson, 16 auxiliary policemen were on active duty, 45 were held in reserve at the police station, and an additional 25 were placed on an alert basis at their homes. The Civil Defense medical unit stood by ready to assist prison medical units. Eight doctors were enlisted for service at the prison, if needed, and medical supplies, including blood plasma, were mobilized. Transportation facilities for casualties in the prison hospital were made, and Jackson hospitals and ambulances were alerted.

Indicate Game Harvest Increased In '51-52
Snowshoe rabbit, woodcock and gray squirrel harvests increased in the 1951-52 hunting season; fox squirrel kill was down compared to the conservation department estimate for the 1950-51 shooting period. Hunter report card returns indicate a bag of 396,000 snowshoes contrasted to 336,000 before. Nearly 236,000 were taken in zone two, or the northern lower peninsula, and 147,000 above the Straits. Woodcock kill improved, 50,000 birds as against 78,000 before. Bag in zone three, the southern third of the state, of 23,000 was larger this time than in zone two with 35,000, possibly due to the earlier southward migration than usual. Gray squirrel take climbed from $2,000 to 55,000 with the bulk of the cropping in zone three. Computed kill of fox squirrels was 590,000 as compared to 610,000 before, with nearly all shot in zone three. Coy is consumed in greater tonnage than any other commodity produced by man.

52 Smelt Die-Off Not To Affect '53 Crop
Spring die-off of Saginaw bay smelt is not expected to materially affect next year's spawning run, reports Dr. Leonard Atkinson, pathologist and investigator for the conservation department. He says the light loss, compared to the big die-off in 1942 when smelt all but disappeared, resulted from this combination of factors: smelt crowded together in weakened condition after spawning, scratches which opened the way to fungus infection, and high water temperatures. easy way to clean rugs yourself! Magic powder removes dirt vacuum cleaner can't get.
