Wildlife Bibliography Available By Writing

Do you need a book on farm wildlife management, or do you want to study up on the ruffed grouse, or the prong-horned antelope? Are you interested in forestry, soil conservation, river-basin development?

The National Wildlife Federation has compiled a bibliography of conservation books and booklets listing more than 100 volumes.

Also listed are about five dozen booklets, charts and guides designed for use in schools as teaching aids in conservation.

A copy of this bibliography may be secured upon request by writing to the Federation at 3303 14th Street N. W., Washington 10, D. C.

ROLLING DOWN THE RIVER

By Bob Kettler

We've been wondering if the current police drive on speeders is truly responsible for the reduced accident rate, or is it because so many of the drivers now have the car completely paid for?

Thank goodness this column doesn't get too much of its material from the front pages of the down town newspapers. They've become too rugged lately and we have to read it all before 10 years ago or thereabouts and it wasn't good reading then. Now if we were smart, right here is where we'd dismiss it with a wise crack, but as matters stand we'll just have to ignore the whole business.

Perhaps, due to circumstances, we'll double our readership. After column upon column of why things happened, after commentator upon commentator has won or lost over the air waves, it should be sheer relief to read the rambling of a Joe who knows less about the whole matter than you do.

Did we tell you of the adoring father that told his little daughter fairy tales every night? The daughter is now seventeen, so she tells them to him.

Now, just when we are wondering what to talk of next, in comes a new shipment of the beautiful 1952 Studebakers, and what we ask you, could be a more interesting subject. Man, there's a car! All the comfort you want, all the power you need, and so doggone economical to operate. You'll have to try to believe it. 22, 23, 24 miles to the gallon are facts, not fancy figures. Low priced, too! Incidentally, if you have a big jet job and want to get a smaller car, why not get a Studebaker for yourself and one for your wife? Your one big car can be the down payment on both.

We must not forget to tell you of the husband who instigated an argument between his wife and a tobacco auctioneer — bet on his wife — and won.

Gotta go now and in the meantime bring your car in for a lube and tune-up. Could be, you'll be driving it for some time to come.

Yours,
BOB KETTLER
