Job Finds Solution: Undying Faith in Our Divine Judge
 Some problems are "modern" in the sense that man has never encountered them before our time. Deep and unchanging as are the problems of man himself, and one thing that is unchanged is the fact that man has to be the problem solver. Some ancient, even more ancient, problems may have much to offer, even in the presence of problems that are as new as the new-born day.

Looking Back Through The Enterprise Files

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (June 23, 1927)
 Ban Dances
 The Oakland County Circuit Court upheld the action of Sheriff Frank Schram and Prosecutor Clyde Underwood in closing Sunday dancing at Walley Lake in a decision this week. A temporary injunction against sheriff's officers preventing them from interfering with Sunday dances was lifted by Judge Leland W. Carr in the Oakland County Circuit Court. The court's decision will set a precedent banning all public Sunday dancing in the county.

Start New Methods
 Superintendent A. C. Leonard of Farmington Public Schools announced this week that a change will be made in the teaching of lower grades in Farmington schools next year. Instead of students going into a new grade with a new teacher each year, teachers will move with their class to the higher grade. It is believed to be more advantageous for grade pupils if they have the same teacher for several years. Result expected from the new mode of instruction is quicker learning. The new method of instruction was used on a limited scale in other areas this last school year. Announcing teaching changes, the superintendent reported that Curtis Hall, who was an outstanding athlete at Central Michigan College, will join the teaching staff as science and mathematics teacher in the junior high school.

TEN YEARS AGO (June 25, 1942)
 Gather Rubber
 Residents of Farmington collected within a ton of scrap rubber in the local salvage drive, according to Henry Otis, chairman of the drive. "People still have until June 30 to turn in scrap rubber," Otis said. "We want to go over the top on the drive and need all the rubber everyone can collect." All registrations in the city and township are serving as receiving stations for scrap rubber.

Hold Blackout
 A short notice preceded the blackout test Wednesday night. Civilian Defense authorities in Farmington termed it a highly successful test. The blackout was in effect for the entire Detroit metropolitan area. Farmington defense officials, advised the first call from Birmingham headquarters at 9:16 p.m. At the first call a yellow warning was established. After the second call, which establishes aircraft coming into the area, a blue warning went into operation. At the third call signifying aircraft in the area a red warning went into effect and the area was completely blacked-out.

FIVE YEARS AGO (June 10, 1947)
 Registration Light
 Registration books for the July 14 Farmington Township School Board election are now open in the office of the superintendent at the high school and in the City Hall. According to Superintendent O. B. Dunkel, registration has been very slow during the past week. Registration began last Tuesday. Persons will be able to register until Saturday, July 5, when the registration books will be closed.

THE WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON
 Here's an over-all picture of what Michigan legislators are up against. Then listen to what State Treasurer D. Hale Brake says about the tax situation.

Cutting expenses is simpler in theory than in practice. For example, 78 per cent of state sales tax revenues are automatically returned to home governments — schools, cities and townships — under a tripartite proved constitutional amendment.

Faced with a deficit of $50 to $60 million by 1951, the legislature has to save or increase its income — $30 to $40 million. Such savings would have to be made from one or all of the regular accounts which represents Michigan's expenditures.

General Government, operating office, cost of legislature, civil service and retirement, takes $12.5 million a year. Education takes $14 million appropriated money. Public Health needs $13.7 million and Mental Hygiene, each years of neglect, costs $38.25 million. Public Welfare costs $54.4 million.

Safety and Defense (state police and National Guard) at $8.6 million. Adult Corrections (that's not a typo) at $10 million (set up) at $10.6 million. Conservation, Recreation and Agriculture at $6.69 are essential as bread and butter.

Debt Service (to pay off our bonds) takes $14.43 million and Aeronautics grants of $287,000 brings the total budget for '52-'53 to three hundred thirty million dollars, $330,000,000! Estimated income for that period is $303 million.

John O. Public can cut his expenses by putting his family on a diet of hog jowls and barley grits. But they wouldn't stay healthy... or happy... very long.

These basic public services might be cut drastically, too. But it's debatable how healthy governments would be. It's beyond debate that the citizens of our state would squawk loud and long when such cuts would curtail services they have grown to consider and accept as necessities.

State Treasurer Brake, who (Continued on Page Three, Sec. II)

He was invited to dine with the Eisenhowers, but several other people were at the dinner table, and after dinner Ike spent over an hour giving a blackboard talk on NATO. At the evening concluded, Stassen said he would like to drop in at Ike's office in the morning to say good-bye.

Graciously, Eisenhower said it wouldn't be necessary. He appreciated the courtesy, but it would be too much trouble for Stassen.

Stassen insisted. He didn't mention the fact that he had had a chance to talk to Ike alone, but it was obvious he wanted that opportunity.

Finally a 15-minute conference was arranged for the next day. But during that 15 minutes the general delivered another talk about the problems of Europe. It was a fascinating talk, but completely non-political.

The ex-governor of Minnesota left for home completely undified on political matters.

TRUMAN WON'T CHANGE
 In a private chat with Congressman Victor Anton of Brooklyn the other day, President Truman bluntly nattered rumors that, despite his 1-won't-announcements, he would nonetheless be drafted by the Democratic convention.

in show business are a sign of success, but a repeat performance of the voting record chalked up last Monday in the Farmington area would be a marked tragedy.

Some of you may think we are in a rut, and a deep one, spending as much time and space on this voting problem, and probably we are. But we don't think there is a more important rut in this country than this one. In fact, we have been criticized for putting so much blame on the individual, yet who are the voters of this community? Individuals! As we have stated before, this community and this nation is made up of individuals, and when that ceases — our democracy ceases!

In a very few months, you and I will be asked again to go to the polls in two vitally important elections. Communities large and small are making elaborate plans to encourage registration and voting both for the primary in August and the general election in November. The Farmington community should also take up the challenge.

The Enterprise would like to hear your suggestions on how we, as a community, can encourage our fellow citizens to register and vote. Not only that, we would like to pass your suggestions on to all our readers in the hope that some of our organizations might pick them up and weave them into a constructive program.

Our future depends on this type of objective and progressive action. We can not afford to just sit by and watch minority rule take over. It can happen, it has happened and it will happen again, unless we as individuals do something about it.

Let us have your suggestions and let's hope that they will form the basis for a community-wide drive that will bring victory for democracy this fall!

A Familiar Note . . .

was sounded Monday evening at the regular meeting of the City Council and it was played by experts.

It is a note that should ring in the ears of every citizen of this community. Yes, you have heard it before many times — it is called planning. Now before you turn away or shift to something else, remember this, what we do today has a marked bearing on what things will be like tomorrow! It is up to us, we can't turn away or ignore the inevitable — to do it is to spell disaster.

There is only one way to insure our continued progress as a community and to meet the competition of tomorrow — that is to plan and promote. Today two adjacent communities are in the process of building expansive shopping centers. What are we doing?

The population of the Farmington area is growing by leaps and bounds. We are adding new homes and new subdivisions almost as fast as we can count them. But what are we doing to plan our future? Our schools have been planning for some time and must continue the program at an ever-increasing pace. The city is now beginning to see the importance of planning and is preparing to do something about it. It has been mentioned at township meetings, but no action has resulted. Efforts have been made to stimulate merchant planning and promotion but with no results.

New and increased services must be provided if we are to build a better community and that requires planning. New as well as the older residents of the Farmington area must be encouraged to make this their shopping center and that requires promotion. We must lift our eyes and look ahead.

Those Two Words . . .

"mud slinging" entered the State political arena last week, and we will probably be subjected to them again as the primary election draws nearer.

These two little words seem to always find their way in as the battle grows hotter. Politicians, at least, seem to think it adds spice to their campaign. To most intelligent voters it adds only disgust. Yet it continues as a diversion to confuse the voter and cover up for the candidate who is on the hearing end of the "mud".

Most of the voters are interested in what the candidate stands for and what his intentions are, not how he rates his opponents. Most of us like to think we have the intelligence to make that decision ourselves, if we have the facts. So how about putting that "mud" away, before it gets in our eyes, too.
