them first!

HAVE YOU GIVEN

to the Farmington United Fund and Community Chest yet? On the basis of the first and rather incomplete returns, things seem to be off to a flying start. Percentage-wise, more money has been collected in the first few days of this current campaign than in previous years, and that's good news. It means that Farmington stands a chance of meeting its quota for the first time since the annual campaigns began. But there is still a lot of work to be done and a lot of contributions to be made before our goal is realized. Every citizen in the community must help if our boys and girls are to continue enjoying the opportunities they now have . opportunities was as community must provide.
When that volunteer solicitor knocks on your door, remember those boys and girls and give all you possibly can!

ANOTHER PROBLEM.

waiting for the proposed City Planning Commission was very much in evidence last Friday evening and Saturday. We thought we had seen cars in the city before, but nothing like black vecked. The public parking lots were Januared, the private lots were full and the streets were crowded to overflowing. From all indications present facilities are already tased on the normality problem. It is a golden opportunity for real service through cooperative action. The results will bring real benefits to everyone, but leadership is urgently needed now if these benefits or the large of the properties of the proper are beginning to show up on car fenders these days as more and more hunters wend their way home from the north woods. There is something about a deer fastened to a car fender that always attracts a crowd, and we aren't any exception, either. But as the happy bunters make their trek southward, there is some Farmington hunter standing on the curb with a big grin on his face. If you are wondering about the grin, just look on the sports page for the answer. The fine deer pictured there was bagged by Bill Tamm only a few hours after the season opened and only a few males from Farmington. No wonder he is grinning.
