U.S.A.F. Captain Praises
Air Spotter Organization

The Farmington Air Spotters organization featured a talk by Captain R. J. Tawney, Air Force officer in charge of the Grand Rapids filter center, at the meeting on Monday, November 17.

Captain Tawney told the group about the methods used at the center for receiving calls from outlying posts such as Farmington's. He also showed slides to illustrate various points of his talk.

Following the Captain's talk, and after refreshments had been served by the Garden Club, tape recordings were made for possible presentation over an Air Corps radio program. Topics of discussion over the recordings included "Why are you interested in Air Spotting?"

Captain Tawney praised the local post not only from a manpower standpoint, but also from the physical point of view. He added that the Farmington post is excelled only in the state by the House of Corrections in Detroit.

In view of the Captain's statement about manpower for the spotting station, Director Thomas Tardy emphasized that additional spotters are still needed if the local post is to maintain its good standing.

Tardy also expressed thanks to the Leading Engine Company for their donation of cushions for the seats in the post.

Mrs. Henry McMillan from Detroit was visiting with her sister-in-law, Mrs. V. C. Reddy Thursday morning.

Weds Detroit Man

MRS. GLENN A. KINGERY, JR.

Farmington Methodist Church was the scene of a pretty double ring ceremony on November 1 when Miss Dolores Wykoff became the bride of Glenn Alfred Kingery, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kingery of Detroit.

Rev. Russell Suraw officiated at the 5:00 p.m. wedding.

Miss Wykoff, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wykoff of 21621 Collingsham, Farmington, was dressed in a white, waist-length nylon tulle and lace gown and her costume was accented by a Juliette headpiece with nylon veil.

The bride's flowers of white mums and hanging ivy covered a white mull.

Grace Stewart served as maid of honor for Miss Wykoff and wore a similar gown of blue and carried a white mull trimmed with blue mums.

For her sister's wedding, Susan Wykoff, accompanied by Carol Long, served as bridesmaid. Both wore gowns of similar length, but coral in color, and carried white muffs trimmed with coral mums.

Charles Lamar Ray acted as best man for the bridegroom and Donald Ray and Hazen Karp served as ushers.

The bride's mother chose a party blue suit and accessories for the occasion and Mrs. Kingery wore a wine-colored dress with black accessories.

A reception was held following the ceremony at Colony Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Kingery will reside at 21650 Waldron, Farmington, following their honeymoon trip.

ADVISE METHOD
FOR WASHING OF BLANKETS

Save yourself and your blankets this fall when you do household laundry! Mrs. Alice Thorpe of Michigan State College home management department recommends the new soaking method developed at Ohio State University.

Essence of this new method is — don't agitate the soil out of the blanket, soak it out. To begin with, use a synthetic detergent and operate the machine long enough to dissolve the detergent in luke warm water. Put in the blanket and soak 15 to 20 minutes without operating the machine at all. While it is soaking, turn the blanket by hand once or twice.

For the rinsing process, remove the soapy water and allow the blanket to soak four or five minutes in clear, tepid water. Repeat, so the blanket gets two rinsings during each one turn the blanket twice by hand.

After the last rinse, stretch the blanket to original size and dry, Mrs. Thorpe instructs. When the blanket is dry there is still more important work to be done. Brush it well with a stiff bristle brush to raise the nap. The Ohio experiments prove that you can stretch a blanket as much as ten inches by brushing vigorously with a stiff brush.

If you have an automatic dryer, Mrs. Thorpe advises putting in about four pounds of dry towels with the blanket and leaving for 15 minutes. Remove the blanket while it is still moist and finish drying in the air, then brush it just as if it had been dried on the line.

OF UTILIZING

Avoid a turkey hangover at your home this Thanksgiving time. Don't bring in the turkey meal after meal in its original roasted form — try some interesting variations on the traditional theme.

Dr. Pauline Paul of the Michigan State College foods and nutrition department offers three ways to use left-over turkey. She suggests freezing it for later use, making a turkey loaf or heating turkey slices and covering with an interesting sauce.

To freeze turkey Dr. Paul urges you to bone the bird and have the meat ready to serve when you remove it from the freezer.

Turkey loaf will make a "company dinner". Chopped turkey, cooked noodles or spaghetti, chopped stuffed olives, chopped celery, a little grated onion, salt and pepper mixed together and moistened with turkey gravy or white sauce will do it. Turn the mixture into a loaf pan and bake with a layer of buttered crumbs on top.

Turkey slices can be heated on top of the stove in a double boiler. Or do them in the oven, but take care to avoid drying out the slices. Dr. Paul stresses. Slices placed in the oven may be covered loosely or kept moist with a sauce. Left-over turkey gravy or stock or a little milk would give variety to warmed turkey slices the day after Thanksgiving.

For deviled turkey, cover slices with a highly seasoned tomato sauce. Or Dr. Paul suggests a sweet-sour sauce or a barbecue sauce.

Walter Dixon of Bretton Road returned home Tuesday from several days deer hunting near West Branch. He expects to spend another week end in the north.

Industry Offers
Color For Kitchen

Many an American housewife is dreaming of a white kitchen and wondering what she can do to give it a cheerful touch of color. American industry has also been working on this problem of making the woman's workshop a more attractive place.

There has been a recent trend toward color in the home kitchen to get away from the monotony of white. Many housewives have gone to color on the cabinets and storage areas as well as floors in their kitchens.

Color also now climbs the walls and covers the ceiling through the use of prefabricated wall panels for surface covering of these areas.

Prefinished wallpanels, now available in a wide variety of colors, shades and finishes, are available through building material dealers in all parts of the nation. This modern wall and ceiling surfacing material eliminates future expense and inconvenience of redecorating. These panels also eliminate the usual cracks in plaster that mar so many otherwise attractive home kitchens and other rooms. Many housewives do their own application of these panels, thus saving on expense.

The baked enamel surface of prefabricated wallpanels makes the job of cleaning walls and ceilings as easy as cleaning the refrigerator or range surfaces.
