Library Donates Books

After drama groups from three Farmington high schools entertained them, the Farmington Friends of the Library gave each of the three schools a gift edition of a book. Best Plays of 1971-1972.

Accepting the books on behalf of their schools were Linda Pulgini from North Farmington, Jan Roncelli from Mercy and Kathy Blauvelt from Farmington high schools.

Cast-members from current or upcoming dramatic productions at the schools presented segments of their shows for the Friends in the library auditorium.

Players from Farmington did humorous scenes from

"Dobie Gillis," with Jim Carmody in the leading role.

The North Farmington group performed part of its spring production, "My Fair Lady." Scott Terrill played Henry Higgins and Sue Reed played Eliza Doolittle.

An excerpt from "Annie Get Your Gun" was done by the students from Our Lady of Mercy. Maureen Gray played Annie. Mary Beth Comito, Terry Donahue, Liz Twardon, Deirdre Yambor and Vicki Bauman were also featured.

Performances were staged without the benefit of scenery or musical accompaniment. According to the enthusiastic audience, this emphasized the charm of the young actors.

The program was conceived by Mary Mitchell, director of libraries, as a tribute to the Friends.

LOUIS G. VASSILAKOS of Farmington was among 46 Michigan State Police graduates as probationary troopers at a ceremony in the National Guard Armory. He has been assigned to Owosso. The new trooper is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Vassilakos, 23886 Barfield.
