Famed Cartoonist Named To Head 'Wildlife Week' For Second Year

The National Wildlife Federation this week announced that Ed Dodd, Atlanta, noted cartoonist and conservation artist, for the second year has been named chairman of National Wildlife Week, March 15 to 21, 1953.

Mr. Dodd, creator of the popular outdoor feature, "Mark Trail," which runs in approximately 300 newspapers in the United States and abroad, is widely-known for his conservation activities and his work with young people.

An annual observance, National Wildlife Week has been sponsored since 1938 by the non-profit Federation as a means of calling public attention to the problem of conserving America's natural resources.

Each year the Week is dedicated to preservation of a species of wildlife in danger of disappearing from the American scene.

The 1953 goal, it has been announced by Claude D. Kelley, Federation president, will be to help save the dwindling flocks of prairie chickens, or plumed grouse. These birds, once plentiful, now are reduced to relatively small numbers in certain Midwestern states.

As part of this campaign, a special committee of experts has been designated by the National Wildlife Federation to study plans for preservation of the species. The committee, which held an initial meeting December 16 in St. Joseph, Missouri, is headed by R. A. Brown, Jr., St. Joseph attorney and former chairman of the Missouri Conservation Commission.

Other members of the committee are conservation commissioners or game specialists from twelve other Midwestern states.

As chairman of the Week, Mr. Dodd will direct various activities, including speakers' appearances, radio and television activities, proclamations by mayors and governors, window displays and other efforts.

The "father" of Mark Trail is a magazine editor and lecturer. He was associated with Dan Beard for 16 years and was with the noted youth leader at his summer camp in Northern Pennsylvania. He is a member of the Campfire Club of New York, an organization of men who have hunted or sketched big game. The club was founded by Beard, Theodore Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot.

Mr. Dodd has received citations from the Forest Service and Sigma Delta Chi, Journalism fraternity, in addition to other organizations, for his contributions to education in conservation.

POLICE COURSE IN HANDLING OF TRAFFIC ASKED

Establishment of a short course in police traffic handling, as part of the law enforcement program at Michigan State College has been recommended by the safety and traffic and police training committees of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police.

The course would provide training in specific phases of traffic control, such as engineering, accident prevention and investigation, public relations and information, driver licensing and allied subjects. It would be open to all municipal police and sheriff's officers.

The safety and traffic committee also made the following additional recommendations for consideration of the association's executive committee:

Re-introduction of bills in the legislature to make it a violation of state law to block railroad crossings for an unreasonable length of time and to legalize the drunkometer.

New legislation to establish a speed limit of 45 miles per hour for school buses, adopt the uniform traffic signal law, and to likewise authorize the appointment of driver license examiners other than police and sheriff's officers.

The executive committee was urged to consider a re-study of the law pertaining to the failure to answer a traffic summons for the purpose of making it more workable. It was also asked to again survey the need for an increase in driver license fees, a proposal lost at the last session of the legislature.

It was suggested that a study be made of the provisions for issuing driver licenses to persons under 17 years of age so that there might be a better determination of those who could qualify.

Dodd will direct various activities, including speakers' appearances, radio and television activities, proclamations by mayors and governors, window displays and other efforts.

WATCH THE FLAVOR

Good flavor is one of the best reasons for dairy products, claims Donald L. Murray, extension dairyman at Michigan State College. Silage fed before milking and un-ventilated dairy barns hurt the flavor, cows carry the odors through their bloodstream to the milk.
