Dear Editor:

We would appreciate it very much if you would do us a favor. That is, if you have a small space in your paper to print our address, so that we could receive some mail from the U.S.A.

We are a forward observer team for the field artillery. It is a rough job and we think some mail would help us a lot.

Yours truly,

ADEQUATE DIETS NEEDED

Middle aged persons need protective diets as much as growing children, reminded Michigan State College home economists. Older people are less active and require fewer calories, they point out, but their needs for vitamins and minerals are as great as for young adults.

Farmers using electric welders should make sure the wiring is adequate, floors dry and the welder properly grounded, urges David G. Steinicke, safety specialist at Michigan State College.
