BOY SCOUTS SEEK NATIONAL JAMBOREE TRIP FINANCES

Boy Scouts of Troop 45 of the First Methodist Church of Farmington will be taking orders for Easter jelly beans and chocolate eggs between now and Easter as a means of raising the necessary funds to send one of their fellow Scouts to the National Jamboree to be held July 17 to 23 at Irvine Ranch, located near Santa Ana, California.

The Scouts will be in uniform when they solicit and will collect any monies until they make actual deliveries of candy. Perforated cards will be provided so that the customer may retain one until the merchandise is delivered and collected for.

It is estimated that a total of at least $275 will have to be raised in order to finance this wonderful trip for one of the Farmington Boy Scouts.

The national jamboree is the highlight of the Scouting year and it is considered a real honor to be able to attend the event.

DRIVER TRAINING GRANT

A $5,000 grant to start a program of driver training in Michigan's secondary schools has been given by the Allstate Foundation to Michigan State College. The fund will be used to provide scholarships for teachers enrolled in a course in driver education and traffic safety.

THE FLORAL PARK OBSERVER

By George Heliker

If I may be permitted a brief lapse into the first person singular, I would like to devote this week's Observer to an explanation of why I volunteered to take responsibility for this column, and why, in my opinion, it is important that Floral Parkers support The Enterprise and be represented in it.

We moved here last summer. Like most home-owners, we are interested in maintaining and, if possible, increasing the value of our property, as well as improving the conditions under which we and our children live. We have learned by experience that one way in which these objectives are effectively accomplished is through the realization of home-owners who find themselves confronted with common problems into the ubiquitous "Civic Association". Consequently, one of my first actions on settling in the community was to make known my willingness to assume a share of the responsibility for carrying on the work of the local representative of this inevitable and desirable institution — an action guaranteed to get one a job.

I say that the Civic Association is inevitable because, in the nature of things, any group of residential property owners will sooner or later find itself confronted with threats to the value of its property — threats which can be combated only by group action. These problems arise from several sources: some created by natural phenomena, like the bugs which have devastated our maples and the weather which makes hash of our streets; some caused by the rugged individuals among us who ignore the effects of their own actions on their neighbors' comfort and property values; some produced by the proximity of commercial enterprises whose pursuit of maximum profits fails to take into account the losses they may incidentally force upon us as home-owners. These are problems of group living; problems of adjustment of individual interests and tastes to the community interest. In a democracy, we attempt to cope with them through group institutions based upon voluntary action. The important thing is not that we be always in perfect agreement, but that we all assume personal responsibility for furthering the interests of the community as a whole. This responsibility implies not only participation in community activities, but also willingness to "go along" with the group in furthering its programs arrived at democratically. But democratic and representative decisions are made only after adequate dissemination of information and full discussion among those affected. This requires a means of communication through which the whole group can be reached. The Enterprise fills this bill better than any available alternative, the more so because it provides a link with the larger community whose influence upon our particular affairs is so great. The fact that discussion of our problems through the medium of The Enterprise reaches a wider audience than Floral Park is no disadvantage, for it is imperative that Floral Park problems be considered, and our policies formulated, in the light of the interests and oftentimes common problems of our neighbors in Farmington City and Township. Anything that will deter us from thinking in widely sectional terms is all to the good. Therefore, it seems to me that it is in the interest of every one concerned with the welfare of Floral Park to support The Enterprise by becoming a regular subscriber.

This column will be open to any resident for expression of opinions on issues of interest to Floral Park, subject only to the limitations of available space and the demands of reasonable decorum. No contributor (including myself) will receive any monetary compensation.
