It's Our Opinion

Laws Are Made . . .

for a purpose and unless they satisfy that purpose they might just as well be dropped. That is the logical conclusion reached by the Township Board at its regular meeting last Tuesday. As a result they have taken steps to aggressively enforce the present Township Health Ordinance.

We sincerely hope that this new declaration will be more than just words in the official minutes. We hope so because the purpose of the ordinance is to protect the health and safety of all of the people in the township. During the past few years, The Enterprise has received numerous complaints regarding unsanitary conditions in the area. Because some of them seemed almost unbelievable, we made it a point to check them ourselves. We found that in most cases they were only too true.

Sewage flowing in open drains, outside toilets in heavily populated sections or in some cases no toilets at all, and piles of rubbish and debris which served as breeding places for vermin are a few of the "cases". Before going any farther, we want to emphasize that this is not a general condition in the township, but it is frequent enough to arouse real concern.

Some of the cases which we mentioned can not be completely solved until more adequate drainage and some type of sewage system is developed. However, as was pointed out at the Township Board meeting, much can be done through more strict enforcement of present laws. It is not a question of restriction or compulsion . . . it is a pure question of protection.

Such conditions must not be allowed to continue even on a limited scale. Corrective steps now may save a lot of more drastic steps later. Laws are made for a purpose and the Township Health Ordinance is no exception.

Another Drive . . .

is on in the Farmington area, but this one is a little different. No, it isn't new, we have had similar campaigns before, but it is still different.

Instead of digging down in your pocket or purse, you are being asked to sign a card and show up at a certain day and hour. In that appointed few minutes you will have an opportunity to save a life. It won't cost you a penny . . . because you are going to give something that money can't buy.

Do you know how it feels to save a life? Most of you do, but you probably have never thought about it. Saving lives can be a very close thing at times, and then again it can be very remote. But either way it is wonderful! You may rescue someone from drowning, or carry a person from a burning house or you may bring back life to a man or woman whom you will never meet. But the result is the same . . . and you made it possible.

So join this life-saving campaign today. Just sign that slip saying that you will contribute a pint of blood to someone somewhere who needs it to stay alive, and then be on hand May 18 at the Town Hall. That's the date when the Red Cross Mobile Blood Bank will be in Farmington. Let's show them that we are not indifferent to the urgent call for blood . . . let's show them we are willing and anxious to take a few minutes to save a life.

Another Fat Fist . . .

has been thrown at the St. Lawrence Seaway Project and as before the United States has caught it below the belt.

This wild throwing stuff gets a little tiresome after a while, especially when you are on the receiving end. Based on logical reasoning, the seaway proposal should have been adopted years ago. But logical reasoning seems to be a bit "old fashioned" in legislative circles. Not only would it open up new horizons for domestic and foreign trade and build even greater friendship between the United States and Canada, but it would pay for itself in dollar dividends. Maybe the latter is the "sticker" . . . paying dividends is sorta strange talk down Washington-way.

Hitting the Nail on the Head

Maneuvers, pot shots and pressures continue to characterize the state's tax picture. All agree that new taxes must be forthcoming; all continue to point fingers in the other direction when it comes to deciding who shall be taxed.

House Republicans have been making strong behind-the-scenes efforts to come up with a tax bill that could vote through the House. When and if they succeed in this, the bill must secure approval from the Senate before going to the governor. Representatives say that the Senate would not pass a corporate profits tax, should one get through the House; they say that the Senate would not pass a payroll tax, should it get through the House. In short, some of them seem sure that a bill the House could agree upon could not pass the Senate. So belief continues that no complete tax solution will be produced until after June 30, the end of the fiscal year, when the exact amount of the deficit will be known.

Talk of a special session led to a new idea that the Legislature might not adjourn on May 22 as originally planned, but would recess with the idea of returning to handle legislation or whatever other matters it might choose. If there is an adjournment, with the governor calling a special session, he can also limit subjects for legislative consideration; a recess leaves the lawmakers with free hands.

LOOKING AHEAD
GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Looking Ahead Committee, Farmington

Twenty years ago the Roosevelt administration recruited an intellectual "Brain Trust" from among the college professors of the nation. Today the Eisenhower administration recruits its "team" from among the nation's top-level business men. Obviously there will be fewer governmental theories incubated and more "elbow grease" practically employed. This is in order, because American government is now America's biggest business. Its budget is six times the combined budgets of U. S. Steel, the Du Pont Company, General Motors and International Harvester.

Concrete results of the new policies and practices now being established throughout the federal government will not, however, be seen and felt by John Q. Public for a little while. As I've been making the rounds in Washington, interviewing key administration people, with the objective of spotlighting their thinking and planning, I have found no one who has completed his extensive organization. All have had to spend most of their time up to now getting acquainted with their operations and selecting their first and second level administrative personnel.

Good management, if achieved, won't be felt, reflected in the 1953-54 Eisenhower budget because the new departmental heads have too many old commitments made by the preceding administration to make good and not enough time for a thorough budget study. The 1954-55 budget should begin to show the pattern of business management in government and in the succeeding two years the full efficiency and economy heralded by the new administration may be properly expected by the American taxpayers.

A citizen making the rounds in Washington is impressed with two new appointments in the new Eisenhower official family — its high level of ability and experience in business operations, and its high level of individual character. Each new appointment to an important governmental position by the President or one of his Cabinet members seems to be based on an extremely rigid requirement in character and proven ability. If the key jobs there are no professional politicians.

Charles E. Wilson, Secretary of Defense, has headed the world's biggest private business, General Motors; and the government department he now directs spends about 65 per cent of all Federal funds. George M. Humphrey, the new Treasurer, is one of the nation's leading industrialists and financiers, and has a vast experience in big operations. Similar works, Commerce Secretary, Senator Douglas McKay is a highly successful business man. Joseph Dodge, the new Budget Director, is one of America's leading bankers. Looking Back Through The Enterprise Files

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (May 19, 1928)

Miss Joan Hamblen, a popular resident of Farmington, was graduated recently from the Highland Park General Hospital as a nurse. Miss Hamblen was a member of the Farmington High School Class of 1924.

Not until the fire engine came up Grand River and stopped in front of her house did Mrs. William Walters know that it was her home that was affire Tuesday morning. Mrs. Walters had gone out to the street to see which way the fire truck went and was astonished to see it stop in front of her home. Mrs. Reed Webster, a neighbor, saw smoke coming from the roof of the Webster home and sent in the alarm. The fire started in the attic, and was extinguished with little damage.

They Will Return

He also told of some happenings on a recent trip to Washington, D. C., and all in all gave a highly entertaining talk, which greatly pleased the membership.
