Lemon Barbecue Chicken Is a Spring Treat

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

PLENTY of young, tender chickens are on the market now at very attractive prices. So let's give the family its fill of crispy fried chicken. It's good eating any way you look at it, whether hot or cold, sauced or simple, picnic or party style. The important thing is to "know your chicken" and to use the best method of preparation.

Today's modern fryers do not require long, tedious cooking or steaming. They're at their tender best when placed in hot fat about 3 1/2-inch deep, browned over moderately low heat, then finished off over a low heat or in the oven.

Frying chicken need not be a last-minute affair. You can pre-brown the pieces a day in advance, then cool and wrap them in waxed paper. About an hour before serving time, bring pieces up to room temperature and arrange them, one layer deep, in a shallow baking pan.

Pour melted butter or margarine over the pieces and pop the pan into a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 to 40 minutes, or until chicken is fork tender. If dinner is delayed, reduce oven heat and brush chicken with melted butter so that it stays moist and tender.

When you give a fried chicken party, you may prefer to buy chicken by the piece, or else purchase the extra birds and save the boiler wings and backs for later family service. That's what we've done for this luscious Lemon Barbecue Chicken for a party. The meaty thighs, drumsticks, and breasts are browned in hot butter, then cooked in a tangy lemon barbecue sauce until fork tender. Serve extra lemon sauce on the side.

LEMON BARBECUE CHICKEN

One chicken, salt, pepper, 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1/4 cup lemon juice.

Have chicken drawn and cut into serving pieces, or, if quick-frozen, thaw according to directions on the box. Rinse in cold water and dry. Season with salt and pepper. Melt butter in skillet and brown chicken, skin side down. Turn and brown. Pour lemon sauce over chicken pieces. Cover and cook slowly until tender.

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Heliker entertained their Aunt, Cora McDonald, of Novi and one of their brothers at a dinner in honor of their daughter Linda's first birthday.

For the spring dinner party, tender, crisp lemon barbecue chicken is the ideal treat. Serve it with the pride of a good cook who knows her dish is a unique feast.

LEMON SAUCE
(Yield: 3/4 cup)
One small clove garlic, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup salad oil, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 2 tablespoons grated onion, 1/2 teaspoon celery salt, 1/2 teaspoon black pepper, 1/2 teaspoon dried thyme.

Mash garlic clove with salt in a bowl. Add remaining ingredients and mix together. If possible, allow sauce to stand overnight to blend flavors before using.
NOTE: Use a heavy aluminum or stainless steel skillet.

THE FLORAL PARK OBSERVER

By George Heliker

Friday night, May 22, is the appointed date for the annual Floral Park blowout. This year the blowout event will be held at the new building on Eight Mile Road and is billed by promoter John Courville as "something different". Featured attractions will be: Both modern and old-time dancing, refreshments, and a lot of prizes. Emphasis will be on informality.

This year the annual dance has two objectives: First, to provide a social time for the community; and secondly, to replenish somewhat the seriously depleted Civic Association treasury. For the latter reason, no one will be discouraged from buying a ticket, even if unable to attend. And for the same reason, we hope that many Floral Parkers will organize parties if their friends for the occasion. Everyone is welcome to the hall will accommodate a large turnout.

Aside from the annual dance, this is the quiet season of Civic Association activities, with most of the active members busy with household chores, "spring planting", and spring fever. About the
