It's Our Opinion

The Ever-Increasing . . .

sanitation problem in Farmington Township demands detailed study and planning now if an efficient and equitable solution is to be found in the immediate future.

The Board has been confronted in the last few months with more and more of these problems. As the population continues to increase these problems will grow in quantity and seriousness. As a step in the right direction, the Board has taken steps to more rigidly enforce the present health ordinance. Reports have been received from both the local and county health officers on the general situation. This is important to the health and safety of the citizens of Farmington Township.

But additional steps must be taken, and very soon, if a thorough solution is to be reached. The final answer can not be plucked out of a hat . . . it will require detailed study and planning. In some areas of the township individuals can correct unsanitary conditions and they should be required to do so. In still other areas more permanent facilities will have to be provided, such as drainage, sewers and water. This all costs money, and how it is to be secured constitutes a major problem.

It is not our intention to advocate any one method. As we have stated before, it requires much more study than we have been able to give to it. However, there are several avenues of approach open to the citizens. A small millage levy over a period of years and backed by the faith and credit of the township is one possibility. This would require a vote by the people of the township. The establishment of special assessment districts involving the property directly affected by the improvement is another. This has certain limitations, however, concerning limits on the amount of assessment and the sale of bonds. A third possibility is a cooperative program with governments adjacent to the township which have facilities.

The Enterprise believes that these possibilities should be examined thoroughly now in order that a satisfactory program can be started in the near future. It is essential to the health and welfare of the entire community.

We Had The Uncomfortable . . .

experience last week, as we know many of you had, in listening and seeing the political discussion on radio and television concerning the new state tax law.

It was a good show, with Governor Williams and Philip Hart in one corner and Senator Higgins, Senator Morris and House Speaker Wade Van Valkenburg, all Republicans, in the other. We don't for a minute question the right of these officials to speak either for or against the law. As a matter of fact, the information regarding the contents of the tax law was very beneficial to those looking on.

We do question, however, the political implications that were attached to such an important matter. The side remarks and general tone by both parties turned what should have been a clear, factual presentation into an uncomfortable experience. The methods of straightening up the state's financial problems is subject to debate, but not political haggling. It isn't a question of who thought of it or who didn't . . . it is a question of whether it will do the job adequately and fairly.

We believe that the people of Michigan are interested first in the welfare of their state and will take their politics second. More important, they think their officials and representatives should do the same thing.

A Steady Hand . . .

is a mighty important thing when the good Ship of State is rocking and rolling . . . it can spell the difference between weathering the storm or going down in the waves.

We think that President Eisenhower has done much to steady the ship after the flood of rash statements from both the United States and abroad. Our course must be straight and firm . . . we have an obligation and a responsibility to work together with our neighbors in the United Nations and at the same time to defend the ideals of freedom among all those who cherish it. To deviate from that course is to forsake a principle which we have pledged ourselves to maintain.

INTERPRETING - THE NEWS

A tax on Michigan business payrolls and earnings is the legislature's answer to the deepening state deficit in Lansing.
The levy, first of its kind in any state, was steamrolled through the House of Representatives at 24-hours' notice last week.
Strategy of the Senate Taxation committee, led by Senator George Higgins, was apparently to ditch the capriciously drafted state income bill on both business and individuals and to spring at the eleventh hour the business receipts measure. This bill was so new at the capital that a press conference was called Wednesday, May 13, to explain its provisions. Seven days later, including a two-day week end, the bill had been rushed through the Senate and House.

A veteran Detroit newspaper correspondent observed: "It's so new, not a half dozen legislators understand it."
House Minority Leader Ed Carey (D-Detroit) insisted that the occurrence of house records show the mentioned "was jammed through without adequate consideration or knowledge of the bill's content." A Republican move to delete his protest was not successful.
Pointing out that the bill had been written by a representative of the Ford Motor Company, a fact

LOOKING AHEAD
By GEORGE S. BENSON
Farmington, Mich.
Stacy, Arkansas

If you live in America and want to own your own home or improve the one you've got, the federal government is developing a plan to provide more help toward making your dream come true. If you are a tenant and your renting is merely for better housing, plans are afoot in Washington that will help you too, through the promotion of more and better rental housing throughout the nation.
But the big idea of the federal government becoming "Mr. Landlord" for a substantial portion of the population is withering on the vine.

These facts were gathered in talks I've just had with officials in charge of federal housing administration at the Eisenhower administration. The key interview was with Albert M. Cole, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, in which the principal housing aid programs are outlined. He is the new "Mr.
Housing" in Washington. He seems to be a man with vision but with his feet on the ground.

The biggest news Mr. Cole gave me concerns a thorough-going study which his agency is making at the request of President Eisenhower. The study is for the purpose of developing a plan through which the government can promote the building of more homes and better rental housing without upsetting basic governmental and economic principles that have made our people free and our nation the most prosperous in the world. The plan will be submitted to Mr. Eisenhower within a few months and likely will become his administration's conception of the government's proper role in the field of housing.

"There is a great job to be done," said Mr. Cole with enthusiasm. "I believe that not enough people have been assisted in the housing activities of the past. I think we can develop a comprehensive program, through this intensive study we're making, which will give more people better housing than if we limit it to a few privileged people who gain access through political consideration or the like. All of us engaged in this study are tremendously interested in establishing a progressive housing policy which will promote decent housing without restricting the personal liberties of our citizens."

Mr. Cole is from Kansas. He has a background of legislative and Congressional experience, having served several terms in the House of Representatives. He thus has a healthy respect for the procedures of Congress as representing the rightful power of the people.

"Our basic job," he said, "is to carry out such housing policies as Congress decrees." Top housing authorities of Congress will be participating in Cole's study now under way, and he makes it clear that any forthcoming plan, if approved by President Eisenhower, will be in the form of a recommendation for the consideration of Congress. Meanwhile, Cole's agency is being set up to carry out Congressional approval for the building of 35,000 federal housing units where most needed during the coming fiscal year.

How many "rotters" would be affected?
The total is estimated at Lansing to be 75,000.
From the Republicans' viewpoint this may be important at

Looking Back Through The Enterprise Files

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (June 7, 1928)
Honor Students

More than 50 students of Farmington schools will be guests of honor at the annual Honor Banquet to be given on June 15 by the Parent Teachers Association. The banquet is given each year for those who lead in scholastic work. Superintendent John Page of the Howell schools will be the chief speaker of the evening.

Attention Getter
The continuous rains of the early part of the week disgusted many and discouraged business men particularly, but one Farmington merchant saw a good deal of humor in the unobscuring rain and cold.
Citizens passing the window of the Lee Hardware Company were astonished to see a pair of ice skates and a sled on display. The display attracted a great deal of attention.

Signatures Needed
The start toward obtaining signatures to releases of Grand River frontage for the wider highway to Farmington is scheduled to start the latter part of this week. Charles Newton of Pontiac and Supervisor Isaac Bond are working on the project.

TEN YEARS AGO (June 3, 1943)
Graduates
Dorothy A. Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph C.
Johnson of Orchard Lake Road, received her Bachelor of Arts Degree in Bolan from the University of Michigan last Saturday. Farmington graduates from Michigan State College include Joseph W.
Norton, Raymond B. Oldham, and Richard S. Reid.

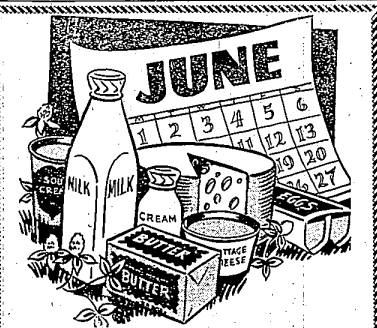

Will Not Run
Two openings on the school board will be filled in the election this spring. The terms of Howard M. Warner and Mrs. Florence Lee are expiring. Mrs. Lee has decided not to run for re-election and petitions have been filed by Howard M. Warner and Mrs. Alice Warner. This ends a long period of service for Mrs. Lee, who served as principal of public schools for eight years and had, for the past fifteen years, been a member of the Board of Education.

An article written by Miss Joyce Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hart of Vista Villa Estate, has been published in the Marygrove College yearbook. Miss Hart will be a senior at Marygrove next fall.

FIVE YEARS AGO (June 3, 1948)
New Director
Dr. M. E. Whitehead, president of the Farmington Area Recreation Commission, announced this week the appointment of William R. Nuss as director of the recreation program to be inaugurated in this area this summer. Nuss, presently an instructor at Ypsilanti High School, will join the teaching staff of the Farmington Township School District as football and baseball coach and teacher of General Science and Health.

Attend Convention
Four representatives of the Farmington Junior Chamber of Commerce are attending the National Convention in Philadelphia this week. The four men include Nate Mihay, James Warner, Robert Meiz and Ray Oldham.
