Norway Sardines Satisfying and Versatile

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

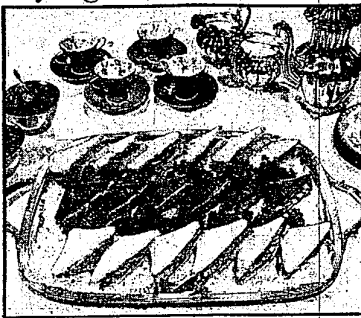

SARDINES, hot or cold, are always a welcome addition to any meal and make wonderful between-meal snacks. Sandwiches made with Norway sardines combined with lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers on white, rye or pumpernickel bread, and served at your afternoon or evening Canada party are refreshing these warm days. Here's the way we make them at our house:

NORWEGIAN SNACK-TIME SANDWICHES
(18 party-size sandwiches)

Six slices white bread, 6 slices black pumpernickel, 6 slices rye bread, 3 (3½-ounce) cans Norway sardines, butter, mayonnaise, 1 cucumber, 2 tomatoes, 1 small head lettuce.
Butter bread and place lettuce leaves on three slices of each kind of bread. Completely cover lettuce with sardines. Add thinly sliced tomatoes to five halves and thinly sliced cucumbers to other four halves. Spread the remaining nine slices of bread with mayonnaise. Press tops on firmly and cut sandwiches diagonally.
Potato salad, always a favorite, takes on a tangy new slant when sardines are added. The Norwegians do it this way. It's different and delicious.

NORSE POTATO SALAD
(8 servings)

One (3½-ounce) tin Norway sardines, 8 medium-sized potatoes, 2 hard-cooked eggs, 3 celery stalks, small head Romaine lettuce, 1 cucumber, 3 large sprigs parsley, chives, dry mustard, 4 tablespoons olive oil, 2 tablespoons vinegar, salt, pepper.
Cook potatoes and set to cool. Cut the cooled potatoes in slices about ¼-inch thick. Finely chop the celery stalks, 1 hard-cooked egg, fresh parsley sprigs and fresh chives. Mix ingredients in bowl. Drain olive oil from sardines into a second bowl and add additional olive oil and 2 tablespoons vinegar.
Season with pinch of dry mustard and salt and pepper to taste. Pour over salad and mix thoroughly. Finally, line the salad bowl with lettuce leaves and transfer salad from the mixing bowl. Arrange whole sardines in a pyramid in the center of the salad over quartered sections of hard-cooked egg. Decorate salad with slices of fresh cucumbers with rinds.

Note: The small rich sardines from Norway come packed in either olive oil or natural sard oil. To keep any leftovers in perfect condition for the next serving, store in a tightly covered glass or plastic container, in their own oil. Keep them in refrigerator.

CUB
CAPERS

The June 21 Pack meeting, held in the Farmington City Park, turned out to be quite a success. These summer activities, as you know, are being tried for the first time. Mr. William Burke was in charge and did a splendid job of organizing the games and keeping the contests moving.

The contests most popular with the Cubs were the three-legged race and the tug-of-war. The boys enjoyed the tug-of-war so much that it is going to be used this month at the meeting to be held on the farm of A. R. Green and sons.

Sunday, July 12, is the date of the next meeting. The farm is at 37800 Fourteen Mile Road at the corner of Halsted Road. Look for the white buildings on the hill.

Meeting time is 2:00 p.m. Cubs are to bring their own water and drink for the afternoon water cooler. Another fine program has been arranged and the boys should have a good time.
