two safeties, while Hug yielded four jaits, including a tremendous wallop over the right center field fance by Jim Chalmers in the sixth incluse.

The Tigers scored single runs in the first and second and the Cubs tied it up on markers in the first and third. LeSage counted Irist and third. LeSage counted the winning run in the top of the fifth as he singled, stole second, and came in on a passed ball. Chaimers' blust in the sixth made it 4 - 2, but the Cubs staged a last ditch rally as Billy Smith and Frank Clappison singled and Diekwilley walked to load the bases with two away in the final stanson. Darry! Allen worked the count to 3 and 2, but Thomson reared back and threw in his fast one for strike three and the ball game.

ROLLING DOWN THE RIVER

Well, this particular fellow we nave in mind came in the show-room the other day to buy a new Studebaker, which he did with speed and delight, not only his, but a bit of ours. He told us that his father-in-law ought to own Studebakers, as a superstant of the more processing, what with this father-in-law having most poseling, what with this father-in-law having most of the money in the world and a disinclination to part with the old man aireavt has figured only how to fire-proof the stuff that has him worried."

Agny like that should relax and part with small samples and part with small samples and part with self while he's up and about, feet out and go places and the best way of going places is in one of the part of the part of the comfort, all the power he can hope to find in this mundane world is packed into that beautiful bundle called the Stude-and you don't have to have his money. Just a bit of a down payment and there you are, the lightways of America open he or tomorrow and let us demortante why you should be the proud owner of a fine Stude-baker!

Oh, well, sooner or later you'll come to the decision that the Studebaker is the car for you, and in the meantime we'll have to tell of the conference we had with a married man with trou-bles. He told us that he was worried, that his wife had de-veloped an interiority complex. "That's easy to cure," we told chlatrist."

"Wait a minute," he yelled,
"I don't want to cure her, I want to keep her that way!"

piex is to bring it to the atten-tion of our expert mechanics, especially if it's bere doing a bit of loaling lately. There's nothing like an expert tune-up and a 'complete lubrication will give the ear the 'get-up-and-go' you've always wanted it ohave. Be a good idea to bring it around and have a better driving ear for the long sum-mer ahead.

That's that, but a fellow told us a true friend is one that thinks you're a good egg when you're broke,

Yours, BOB KETTLER
