Michigan's Forest Future Seen Good

Michigan's forests played a big role in the economy of the Wolver-ine State in 1953; Charles Allen, of Detroit, chairman of Michigan For-est Industries, declared in a year-of statement. "The timbered north as well as the smaller evolution for the state's will small for the state's will small for the state's will small for the order will small over 51,000 order. "At the state of "Value" of raystimber products alone was $55,000.000, while further, manu-
