It's Our Opinion

The Task Of Training . . .

skilled automobile drivers is one of the most important and yet most perplexing problems facing us today.

Many schools in this area and throughout the state and nation are including driver training in the educational programs. Clarenceville High School is one of the latest to initiate the project. According to safety reports, the education program is showing tremendous results. In some areas, where both student and adult classes are offered, the traffic accident rate has been reduced as much as 50%.

Although driver training may be classified as an elective subject or maybe even an extra-curricular activity, it may well be the most important class in a student's program. All of the history, English, civics, science and geography will be of little value to the individual if he or she dies at the wheel of a crushed automobile.

In spite of the urgent need for this type of program, however, it is far from easy to develop. A driver training course is probably the most expensive subject offered in our schools. Although, in most cases, the cars are loaned to the school, the other costs of providing the class are extremely high. The securing of trained instructors, the limited number of students that can be handled and the maintenance and operation of vehicles add greatly to the cost.

There is under discussion now a proposal which would earmark some of the traffic fine money collected in Michigan for school driver education. This, we believe, is a constructive approach to the growing problem of traffic safety. It would enable more and more school districts to offer the program in their communities, and would result in a saving of millions of dollars in property damage as well as thousands of lives which are lost each year on Michigan's streets and highways.

The Increased Attention . . .

on the part of the City Council to the needs for additional, off-street parking in the business district is very encouraging.

Farmington, like many other older communities, is faced with a serious off-street parking problem. It has been serious for some time, but it is getting almost critical now. With the growth of population and the increase in competition, a place to park is a treasured possession. The community that can offer ample parking is at a distinct advantage.

The development of new shopping centers throughout the metropolitan area is a major challenge to the older business districts. Both can perform a valuable service to the people. The competition can open up entire new fields of business and prosperity. But if this is to be realized, the needs and the desires of the people must be satisfied, and one of these basic desires and attractions is convenience.

The Farmington shopping center is convenient to the residents of this growing community. As such Farmington people prefer to shop here, as long as facilities are provided which compare with other centers. One of the most desirable facilities is convenient parking. The urgency of the situation cannot be over-emphasized.

We're in a highly competitive area, and we must compete if Farmington is to grow and serve.

The Big Question . . .

being tossed around the banquet halls and family dining rooms these days is whether we're in a recession, a depression, a readjustment period or what.

In spite of its far reaching consequences, the question has been turned into about a neat political football as we've seen in a long time. As a result, the air is full of wild accusations and wild predictions, which contribute absolutely nothing. It is difficult enough for the average person to try and figure out what's happening, without having to wade through a political smog to find the answer.

The big question may remain in doubt for several months to come, but we can be sure of one thing - there is no recession in the business of politics.
