Obituary

Mrs. Myrtle P. Rice of 32005 Northwestern Highway, Farmington Township, died Friday evening, March 19, following a short illness.

Mrs. Rice was born in Detroit, Michigan, on January 6, 1888, the daughter of William and Maria Hillebrecht Freese. She attended the Detroit Public Schools and on December 24, 1913, she was united in marriage to George L. Rice. Mr. and Mrs. Rice had lived in Farmington Township for the past seven years, coming here from Ferndale, Michigan. Mrs. Rice was a member of the Orchard Methodist Church.

Funeral services were held at 1:30 p.m. Monday from the Thayer Funeral Home with Rev. Leroy L. Lord of the Orchard Methodist Church officiating. Cremation took place at White Chapel Memorial Cemetery.

Surviving besides her husband are son, Tunis P. Rice of Birmingham; three sisters, Mrs. Lu Seydall of Detroit, Mrs. Pearl Roubille of Detroit and Mrs. Gladys Worthington of Highland Park. She also leaves one brother, William Freese of Tucson, Arizona, and two grandchildren.

The United States Navy recently christened two new ships—both of them wooden minesweepers. Because of the wood, and the use of other non-magnetic materials, such as certain nickel alloys and copper, these vessels will not attract magnetic mines.

Railway Express Birthday Noted

"March marks a milestone in the romantic history of express," said Mr. Wade Dickerson of the Railway Express Agency's Farmington office.

It was one hundred and fifteen years ago March fourth that the industry had its beginning. This was twenty-one years before the very young Johnny Fry, first of the Pony Express riders, coaxed his speedy black horse into a full gallop on the first leg of a suicidal effort to narrow the border between East and West.

It was in 1839 that an imaginative young railroad conductor, William P. Harnden, with ideas and the ambition to carry them out, first conceived that a thriving business could develop out of a carpet bag.

With the help of advertising... and perseverance that knew no bounds... it wasn't long before his carpet bag grew into a box like railroad car riding behind the chugging "iron horse."

When the profitable possibilities of express were proven, Harnden was suddenly confronted with many competitors. This only added more zest to the contest and his firm prospered.

Some of the pioneers, such as Henry P. Wells, spent their apprenticeship with the young man from Boston, before branching out on their own. The names "Wells Fargo," "Adams" and others become known in every household because Wells, William Fargo, George Ponieroy and Alvin F. Adams, along with many others, cut a wide swath in the ever-enlarging road of express.

In 1929, the leading railroads of the country purchased the combined facilities of all existing companies and formed the Railway Express Agency, Inc. This purchase put the giant express transportation business under its present central control, with its office spanning every corner of the country. Thus William P. Harnden's dream had been fulfilled.

Now the pioneers of a new era in express—cut from the same pattern as the pioneers of the earlier days—are striving for new goals. With the advent of the airplane and faster trains and trucks these goals are being attained.

Fish Spearing Season To Open On April 1

Carp, suckers, mullet, dogfish and garpike will be open to spearing in hundreds of state streams from April 1 to May 31 in the lower peninsula and during May in the upper peninsula, the conservation department reports.

The popular spring sport will be open on many trout streams and on most non-front waters of the state. Artificial lights are permitted on most open waters, while some areas are restricted against use of lights.

Lists of waters open during the coming season may be obtained from the department's fish division at Lansing. If in doubt about local streams, area conservation officers should be consulted.

force may be increased by at least 50 troopers by the Legislature. That's the prediction of a member of the House Ways and Means Committee who asked this question.

State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs has asked for about 160 new men while Governor G. Mennen Williams recommended increasing the size of the force by at least 300.

An increase of 50 men would raise the size of State Police to about 750. Most of the new men would be used to patrol highways.

Michigan's new medium security prison probably will be built at Ionia despite a report recommending six other possible sites. The Legislature must decide whether it will be a 600, 800 or 1,200 inmate institution and also pick a site before adjourning April 9.

Lawmakers from areas named as possible sites may fight to keep it from Ionia but it will be for a lost cause. Key legislators have been told it will cost less to build Ionia and that will be the biggest factor in reaching decision.

It's official now. More babies were born in Michigan during 1933 than in any previous year. The State Health Department says preliminary figures show more than 181,000 babies were born.

Dan Gerber, president of Gerber Baby Foods, Inc., of Fremont, says there were fewer "flits" babies born in 1933 than in 1932 but the number of second, third, fourth and fifth babies born in a family continued to increase.

The Conservation Department reports that 1,140,000 hunting licenses, an all-time high, were sold in Michigan last year. Previous high was 1,104,090 licenses sold in 1932.

The new record was set despite a drop of nearly 20,000 in the number of deer licenses sold last fall.

Veteran political observers at the State Capital were predicting a bright political future for freshman Richard G. Smith (R-Day City).

Many of his colleagues compare him with Governor G. Mennen Williams.

"Why, he even looks like the governor from a distance," one House member said. "If he were just a little older, he would be the Republican party's best candidate to run against Williams. And he'd beat him, too!"

Like Williams, he is tall, athletic appearing, has a so-called "boyish" face, and wears bow ties.
