GOODWILL TRUCKS TO MAKE PICK-UP ON APRIL 5

The Goodwill trucks will be in Farmington and Franklin Village on Monday, April 5, to pick up discarded, Miss Lari Ault, local Goodwill representative, reminded this week.

Persons having clothing, furniture, toys or small appliances for Goodwill are asked to call Miss Ault at Farmington 1461-M.

Goodwill, largest employer of handicapped people in Michigan, was able to give jobs to an over-all total of 707 of the handicapped during 1953.

It was pointed out by Miss Ault that Farmington and Franklin Village residents were among the happiest contributors serving the area, and without their kindness and thoughtfulness many of these handicapped would have been jobless. They would have been tax consumers instead of tax payers.

Goodwill hopes to expand during 1954 to aid even more in giving jobs to those with disabilities.

The program for the year depends on the nearly 200,000 households in this area who have moved in the past that it is easy to help the handicapped help themselves.

Goodwill is the only self-supporting agency of its kind in Michigan. It does not ask for money or time. Goodwill asks only for possible discards which are ready to be thrown away.

Residents of Novi who wish to contribute discards can call volunteer representative Mrs. Harnden at Northville 9142.

The Goodwill trucks will be in Novi on Tuesday, April 6.

Mrs. Horace Durham of Grand River Avenue returned home last Friday after spending some time in the hospital and later at the home of a friend.

HOME EC JOBS OFFER GIRLS NEW HORIZONS

Home economics in business is a field in which there is increasing opportunity for young women to open new frontiers, according to a new booklet published by the American Home Economics Association. Purpose of the booklet is to tell high school seniors and college students about the possibilities for business home economics and how to prepare for positions in business home economics.

"The application of home economics training to the field of business is expanding constantly," the booklet states. "As women generally control more of the buying power of the country, business becomes more and more aware of the importance of woman consumers."

"The home economist in business performs a dual role. She becomes the woman consumer and her needs to her company; and she represents her company and its products to the woman consumer."

Different sections of the booklet give descriptions of jobs in these areas — advertising, consulting, equipment, food, home service, merchandising and editorial work, public relations, radio and television, restaurant and hotel management, textiles, apparel, and home planning and furnishing. A good basic course in home economics is the best preparation for the business career in home economics, states the booklet. In addition, special courses in the major areas of interest are available. Personal requirements include a good appearance, physical endurance, poise and ability to work under pressure, and a sense of responsibility.

The booklet was prepared by a special committee of the home economics department of the American Home Economics Association under the chairmanship of Miss Mercedes A. Bates, advertising food consultant.
