STATE CONTINUES FIGHT AGAINST RHEUMATIC FEVER

Determining the absence of rheumatic fever, high ranking among disabling chronic diseases, often is more important than finding a cause of the childhood enemy, the Michigan State Medical Society states.

At least this is true from the patient's viewpoint, according to the biennial report just published by the organization for its Rheumatic Fever Control Program. In addition to diagnostic and consultation services for patients, the program is aimed at teaching Michigan family physicians how better to recognize rheumatic fever and supplying them with the latest medical information on treatment of rheumatic heart disease.

County medical societies in Michigan with the volunteer help of their doctor-members, now operate 25 rheumatic fever control and consultation centers, where family physicians may send children suspected of having rheumatic fever or suffering the after-effects, rheumatic heart disease.

Up to last December 31, these centers had examined 4,757 children upon referral of their family physician, according to the report. From these a total of 934 cases of rheumatic fever had been diagnosed or confirmed.

Conservation Telecast Changes Time Of Showing

Of interest to Farmington sportsmen and woodsmen will be the fact that "Michigan Conservation," a conservation department television program now being carried by two stations, will shift to a new schedule beginning April 22. The live version, on WKAR-TV at Michigan State College in East Lansing, switches from 4:15 p.m. Saturdays to 5:45 p.m. Thursdays commencing April 22. Charles Floyd, program producer, announces.

Station WWTW at Cadillac presents the show the day following the East Lansing telecast. The hour is as yet unannounced.

The programs present timely and explanatory topics visually as part of the state agency's educational work.

TAKE THE WHEEL—just for the joy of it

(Another big reason for trying a '54 Buick)

UNLESS you've tried it yourself, you're going to find it hard to believe.

But when you press the pedal of a 1954 Buick with Twin-Turbine Dynaflo, joy reigns—and so do you.

You feel the joyous thrill of commanding instant response, the solid "take hold," the firm authority of your acceleration.

You feel a joyous exhilaration at the utter smoothness of the forward carry—a completely infinite smoothness that is there every inch of the way.

And you feel a deep and abiding joy at the simplicity of it all, the ease with which you drive, the blessed restfulness of travel with a truly automatic transmission working its wonders.

As we said, you'll find this hard to believe—until you try it yourself.

Until you try TT Dynaflo with the stepped-up V8 horsepower of the 1954 Buicks. Until you try it with the new buoyancy and the new handling sureness of the improved Million Dollar Ride. Until you try it with the new visibility, the new luxury, the new "look of tomorrow" styling that are part and parcel of every 1954 Buick.

So, we want you to be our guest at the wheel of a 1954 Buick with Twin-Turbine Dynaflo this week.

During April, 1,500,000 people will guest-drive the 1954 Buicks, and join the Thrill Of The Month Club by doing so. We cordially invite you to join them, for a real thrill. Call us today.
