Timber Sales Approved In Six State Forests

Timber sales in six state forests, totaling $23,000, were approved at the last meeting of the conservation commission.

The sales continue an upward trend. During the first three months of 1954, Michigan realized $160,000 from sales of its timber. This was more than a 50 per cent increase from the average pace of 1953, when a total of $392,000 went into state coffers.

The sales will all be held next month. Sales are being stepped up to make best use of timber now maturing in state forests.
