

Homemakers' Conference At MSC Open To All

The 27th annual Homemakers' Conference at Michigan State College will be held from July 20 to 24 with applications now being taken from anyone wishing to attend, according to the Oakland County demonstration agent, Mrs. Josephine H. Lawyer.

The conference theme this year is "Better Families - Our Goal" with sessions to be offered on 18 varied subjects. Matters conducted by MSC faculty members and other authorities in each field. Special morning and afternoon and evening programs and entertainment have also been planned.

Enrollment may be made for either the entire conference or any portion of it. Further information about classes and registration may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Lawyer, Oakland County Extension Office, 1250 West Boulevard, Pontiac, Federal 2-264.

Good Fishing Reported Throughout The State

Continued reports of "good fishing" have arrived in conservation department headquarters in Lansing during recent weeks. Park managers, who make weekly reports, have commented at length on the good catches of perch, bluegills and other panfish being taken from the waters of state parks.

Also, state fisheries workers say they have been impressed that anglers are making excellent catches of fish this year. They add that comment from anglers is optimistic and generally on the happy side.
