DON'T SEEM POSSIBLE

But it's true. Thanksgiving is almost here. When we talk like that it makes us wonder what we did with our summer's wages — don't it? Anyhow that brings up the question of how many are you going to have for dinner that day and how big a túrkey are yuh gonna need? If yuh want one close to a certain size would cha remember to tell the butchers this week so they can put it in their blue book? We still have to eat this week tho so what'll it be - beef, ham, pork, lamb, veal, or meat loaf? We sortta favor beef around our house cause we can throw the whole meal in one pot, then we don't have so many calico dishes to wash.
Would you like a beef pot roast fer 49c a lb.? Then there's fresh sweet potatoes now and they always kindda go with a pork roast. Fer the pork it's a pork butt fer 49c a lb. Then we have some fresh meaty spare ribs. They're kindda good with either dressin' or squer kraut. These here spare ribs are 49c a lb. too. Seems like everything is 49c — aint it? We'll git out of that rut and suggest some of our own corned beef fer 59c a lb. How about something fer some hot biscuits? We have some of those pound jars of strawberry jam yet fer 59c each. Fer the butter there's Vlasic for 59c or Defiance oleo fer 21c a lb. Wouldcha like yer biscuits in a can? We have some Bordens biscuits fer 10c a can. The price is right anyhow, aint it? Don't fergit about puttin' yer order in fer Thanksgiving. Will yuh?
